

Way Cleared for Conspiracy Charges in New Orleans

By GENE ROBERTS
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
NEW ORLEANS — A panel of three judges ruled yesterday there was sufficient evidence to try Clay L. Shaw, a retired New Orleans business executive, on charges of conspiring to assassinate President Kennedy.

Orleans Parish District Attorney Jim Garrison said he would soon file formal charges and a bill of information against Shaw, the legal steps needed to set the trial procedure in motion.

The decision of the Orleans Parish (county) Criminal Court came after a four-day hearing in which a former narcotics addict and a man who first denied, then asserted that he knew Shaw and Lee Harvey Oswald, gave the chief testimony.

Garrison contends that Shaw, Oswald and the late David W. Ferrie, a onetime airline pilot, conspired at a meeting in September, 1963, to kill the President.

The judges handed down their decision minutes after a former narcotics addict, Vernon Bundy, 29 years old, testified that he once saw Shaw and Oswald talking together in the summer of 1963 on the shores of Lake Pontchartrain.

The ruling by Judges Malcolm V. O'Hara, Bernard J. Bagert, and Mathew S. Brandt means that Garrison can bring Shaw to trial without seeking an indictment from a grand jury.

However, he must file a bill of information in which he spells out detailed charges against Shaw. The judges ruled that Shaw may remain free on $10,000 bond until the trial ends.

The judges ruled that enough evidence had been presented by Garrison and his staff to show "probable cause" that a crime had been committed, and to justify a trial in the matter.

Garrison said that he would file the bill of information within the next few days but gave no indication as to when he might bring Shaw to trial.

When he was arrested on March 1, Shaw was accused of participating in the conspiracy, but no formal charges were brought against him.

As one of Garrison's two chief witnesses, Bundy testified yesterday that in June or July of 1963 he was preparing to inject the contents of two capsules of heroin in his arm at Lake

WARREN COUNTY

There have been long hours on both sides in the operators' strike at Bell Telephone Co., and there's a striking similarity in the problems faced by both sides in the dispute. Steve Cullinane's report is on Page One.

The water hit the sill of the topgates at Kinzua Dam, marking the beginning of summer pool level of 1328 feet. It was the fullest the Allegheny Reservoir has ever been and starts the preparations for the first full season of the recreation area. Page One.

The search resumes today for a missing Lakewood, N.Y., man who disappeared last weekend near Akeley on the Conewango Creek. He is presumed drowned in deep water to the south of the Akeley bridge. A search last weekend turned up no trace of the man. Page A2.

PENNSYLVANIA

Governor Raymond Shafer said he will present the state's annual budget next month, but he was coy about the tax situation. Whether they will be raised or not is a question he is not prepared to answer. Some critics had charged he would not release the budget until May. Page One.

Pennsylvania weather went a little off the beaten track of the cliché "in like a lion," etc. After a mild entry, March turned bitter cold and snowy and conditions are expected to continue that way for a while. Page A-2.

THE NATION

President Johnson has released another $764 million from the funds he froze last December because of the overheated economy. His stated reason was that the economy has cooled off enough to warrant release of the funds. Some analysts, however, believe his announcement is tied to a visit from several governors scheduled this weekend. Page One.

Adam Clayton Powell will not return to Harlem as planned because of what he says is a threat of violence if he is arrested. Page One. Meanwhile, Senator Dodd of Connecticut ended Senate Ethics Committee hearings into his finances with the statement that his "conscience is clear." Page A2.

THE WORLD

In Vietnam, the war went on with scattered groundfighting and air raids on the North. A single fighter-bomber broke through fog and heavy anti-aircraft fire to hit one of the most important power plants in the north. Page A5.

SPORTS

Mercer retained its Class B PIAA state basketball title last night by trouncing Montrose in the nightcap of a doubleheader at the Harrisburg Farm Show Arena. The Mustangs, behind Bob Rhoads, won 61-52. In the Class C title game Darby Township held on in the final quarter to edge past Union Joint 51-44. Union Joint is the team that knocked Sheffield out of the playoffs. Page A6.

Two upsets highlighted the NCAA regional tournaments last night. Dayton knocked off highly rated Tennessee in the Midwest Regional 53-52 and SMU downed second-ranked Louisville in the Midwest Regional 83-81. Boston College just escaped the upset category by edging St. John's 65-62. Page A6.

National Invitational Basketball Tournament comes to a close this afternoon when the Salukis of Southern Illinois tangle with the Marquette Warriors in Madison Square Garden. Both teams won hard-fought semifinal games. The coaches of both teams say that they are "up" for the big one. Page A6.

WILDLIFE WEEK: MARCH 19-25

Warren County, billed as "Pennsylvania's Last Frontier," will note National Wildlife Week starting Sunday. These animals, all denizens of the county's forests, are indicative of the rural atmosphere prevalent in the Kinzua Dam region. They are a white-tailed deer, a black bear, and autumn's favorite fall guy, the turkey. Wildlife Week, sponsored in this area by the Warren County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, is set aside to observe throughout the nation "as a time to remind the American people that 'This Is Your Land' to own, enjoy, and care for." WON'T GO TO HARLEM

Powell Backing Down

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell backed down yesterday on his threat to return to New York on Sunday because he said he was afraid his arrest might touch off a riot.

Powell said he had been told by Negro leaders that Harlem was very tense. He said his lawyers also told him to wait until his legal case challenging his exclusion from Congress is settled.

"I don't want anything to happen in New York City," Powell told a news conference on his exile island just off the Florida coast.

"I am reluctantly, very reluctantly changing my plans but I can't go against the advice of the people I trust," he said. "I want to go back but not if it means violence and bloodshed and my people tell me it would mean violence and bloodshed."

Powell said he would know within a few days when he would be able to return to Harlem, and whether he would be arrested.

In the meantime, he said, he would stay on Bimini until he is advised there was no longer any danger of arrest or a confrontation between the Negroes in Harlem and police.

"I don't want to be blamed for violence or bloodshed nor do I want to cause any," he said.

He said he would not have announced on Monday that he was going to walk the street of Harlem on Sunday if he had known "things were so serious in Harlem."

Bell Telephone's Stand Explained

W. W. Kinkel, assistant vice president of labor relations for the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania said yesterday the Pennsylvania Telephone Union's proposal to submit to binding arbitration the terms of a completely new contract was "calculated to obscure the fact that the union had abandoned the collective bargaining process."

Kinkel explained the company had made three major

"package" offers in two days, the last one totalling $2,600,000 in wages alone. At 6:30 p.m. on March 15, six hours before the expiration of the contract, the union left the bargaining table without responding to this offer. In addition, he said, the union refused to extend the contract on a day-to-day basis so we could work out an agreement and avert a strike.

"To ask a third party to write a complete contract is dangerous and unsatisfactory for both unions and companies," Kinkel said. "It is a technique generally shunned by unions and companies alike, because a third party dictates the terms both have to live with without being responsible in any way for the consequences of these terms."

Kinkel said the company was not opposed to submitting labor disputes to arbitration.

"We have done this for years," he said. "But in these cases, a contract was in force and the arbitrator was asked to rule on an interpretation of a part of the contract, or a claimed violation of a clause in the contract."

"In this instance, however, the Pennsylvania Telephone Union proposes to throw details of a completely new and complex contract into the hands of an outsider. It proposes to do this after it has turned its back on the collective bargaining process—the recognized means for settlement—despite efforts of state and federal mediators."

Johnson Releases More 'Frozen' Funds for Roads

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson reported yesterday that anti-inflation measures have succeeded, pressures have subsided, and he is releasing an extra $761 million in frozen federal funds.

Most of the thawed-out money is for federal aid to highway projects — $350 million — and for special mortgage assistance for low-cost housing — $250 million.

All told, Johnson ordered $5.2

billion in funds for federal programs deferred last fall when the economy was heating up. This would have cut back federal spending in the present fiscal year ending June 30 by $3 billion, officials said.

Earlier this year, Johnson released $555 million of the frozen funds. The $791 million added today brings the total deferred to $1.35 billion. Actual spending out of the $791 million in the present fiscal year was estimated at $105 million. Budget Director Charles Schultze told the newsmen the administration would take a look to see whether more funds can be released. But he said not all can be cut loose by June.

The action yesterday was on the eve of the convening of the nation's governors for a day at the White House today. Some governors are unhappy about the freezing of highway money, particularly.

Schultze was asked whether the release of funds yesterday was timed with the visit of the governors. He didn't answer that specifically, but said that "what would have happened if the governors had not met, I don't know."

Answering another question, Schultze said that, no, Johnson's action yesterday was not dictated by signs of sluggishness in the economy.

"I'd say it's a healthy economy," the budget director said. The money previously released also was largely for highways — $175 million — and mortgage assistance for low-cost housing — $300 million.

Shafer Quiet About Taxes

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer said yesterday he definitely would submit his budget to the General Assembly next month, but he declined to discuss at this time any plans for a tax increase.

"Our budget will be submitted in April," Shafer told a news conference. "There's a rumor going around that we're going to delay the budget until after May 16, and that rumor is absolutely false. We'll try to get the budget in just as soon as it is humanly possible."

The rumor was based on speculation that any proposed increase in taxes prior to the May 16 primary might result in the voters rejecting a $500 million bond issue for land and water conservation.

Shafer shied away from questions on possible tax proposals, but he said that he did not believe they would have any adverse effect on the bond issue question.

"As you know, I have not received a report from the Tax Study Commission, and I'm not going to discuss the budget until I get that report," the Governor said.

"We all know that in view of the mandates, we will have revenue needs for education, care for the aged and other programs, but I don't wish to discuss the budget until the picture becomes more clear."

On another subject, Shafer said he was willing to consider "any proper changes" in the state's consumer protection law, which takes effect April 1. However, he added:

"I don't know if you can tell how good this law is until we've had some experience with it."

No Health Hazard From Olean

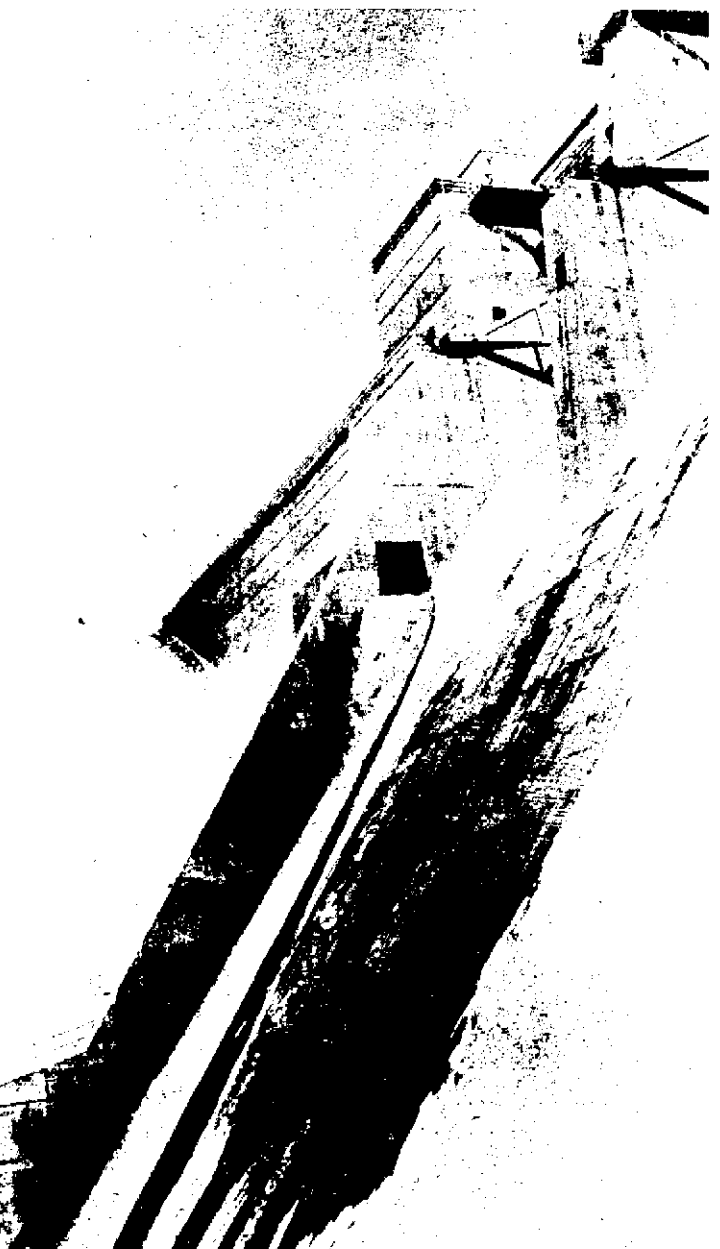

No health hazard will be created by Olean's dumping of raw sewage into the Allegheny River, according to the Army Corps of Engineers.

Congressman Charles Goodell of Jamestown contacted the engineers after Olean's sewage plant blew up Tuesday. He was told the river waters would dilute the sewage so that there would be no hazard to downstream residents.

Goodell also contacted the Appalachian Regional Committee, the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, and the Surgeon General's office, seeking aid for the stricken city.

Candlepower

SAIGON (AP) — An American Marine on operations in the Da Nang area bought a batch of small candles from a village shop and noted that one was heavier than the other. Inside was a carefully inserted powder charge big enough, if ignited, to blind or injure anyone nearby.

Kinzua Dam Level Hits Top of Gates

What might be termed the "last leg" towards filling Kinzua Dam to the desired summer pool of 1328 feet above sea level is progressing satisfactorily according to a report from Jack Ewers, manager of the huge impoundment.

On Wednesday of this week, the level reached the lower sill of the high gates at 1300, and yesterday had climbed enough beyond this level to allow a small amount of water to be discharged through them, being the first time this was possible.

These high gates were designed into the dam to permit some control over the temperature of the discharge water. A feature that is expected to benefit fishes of the warm water species in the river below the dam.

Ewers said that at present all boat launching ramps on the dam had adequate water for normal use. And that the area presently under water amounted to something over 8,000 acres.

He also said that complete filling of the dam should be completed well ahead of the Memorial Day deadline when heavy recreational use of the impoundment is expected to start.

Search to Resume For Lakewood Man

Members of local volunteer fire departments are continuing dragging operations in Conewango Creek this morning in an effort to recover the body of Leo Laughlin, 58 or 59, of Lakewood, N. Y.

Laughlin's car and some of his possessions were found at Akeley Garage, located on the east end of Akeley bridge over the creek. He has been reported missing since last Friday morning, March 10.

A person answering the missing person's description was seen standing near the east end of the bridge at 4:30 p.m. on the day he was missed.

Intensive searching of the area last weekend in which 17 boats took part failed to uncover any clues as the water was swift and murky.

Chief Howard Jones of Russell said his department will begin operations at 9 a.m. and are expecting help during the weekend from surrounding districts and Frewsburg, N. Y.

He said operations would continue Sunday if needed.

The water level of the creek was reported to be slightly lower than last week. It now is at five-feet three-inches. The victim is believed to have drowned below the bridge where the water is from 12 to 20 feet in depth.

The gates of Warner Dam in New York State, which partially controls Conewango Creek's flow are almost closed, a fire official reported.

Unseasonably cold weather may bring reduced manpower to handle recovery operations.

School Bus Strikers Still Out

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A week-long strike by school bus drivers spread yesterday to cover all of Fayette County.

Pickets appeared at three garages serving the Connellsville Area School District, causing absenteeism in the district which officials estimated at 25 per cent.

Pickets from Local 491 of the Teamsters Union also appeared in Carmichaels in Greene County, but the buses had already pulled out.

The Brownsville School District closed for an indefinite period Thursday after the strike had forced attendance below 30 per cent.

Union and bus line representatives met for the first time since the start of the strike Thursday night, but no progress was reported. The drivers are asking for a contract with a daily wage of $25 — nearly double what they receive now.

A hearing is scheduled for Tuesday on a contractors' petition for an injunction halting the walkout.

Sen. Dodd Has Clear Conscience

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd said yesterday his is a life dominated by politics and burdened by debt, then he left his fate in the hands of the Senate ethics committee, insisting "my conscience is clear."

"I don't believe any man is going to look me in the eye and say I've done wrong," the white-haired senator said in an emotional defense against accusations he improperly used political contributions for personal expenses.

For 2 hours and 10 minutes, the Connecticut Democrat was his own defense witness, sometimes plaintive, sometimes angry, often soft-spoken, always insisting that he has done no wrong.

Time and again, Dodd insisted that a series of testimonial dinners which raised nearly $190,000 were intended to produce personal gifts for him — and that the people who paid $100 for tickets knew it.

Those affairs and Dodd campaign fund-raising efforts, produced an estimated $450,000 "if my life ended now, my political life," the 59-year-old senator said, "I wouldn't want to go to my grave feeling that I had flim-flammed anybody at a dinner."

Furthermore, Dodd said, his personal and public lives are so tightly intertwined that virtually every dollar he spends — to this day — goes to cover a political obligation.

"This is the end of a hard period for me," Dodd said when his testimony was done, "really a period of 14 or 15 months of torture, mental torture."

And with these words, he rested his case.

"My conscience is clear. Otherwise I don't think I could have survived this."

"I've done the best I could."

Thus after five days of hearings, a torrent of testimony and a tangle of figures, Dodd's case went to a panel of his Senate peers, the six-member ethics committee.

Its chairman, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said the bipartisan panel would "move as rapidly as consistent with our obligations" to prepare its report to the Senate.

Stennis said that will take "some weeks, at least."

"Then it would be the property of the Senate," Stennis said.

Dodd called his former bookkeeper a liar for testimony that the senator tried to conceal with money orders the use of political checks to pay personal bills.

He bitterly denounced as thieves and betrayers the four office aides who took documents from his files and gave them to columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson. The columns that resulted led to the Senate investigation.

Nixon Just A Tourist In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, snubbed by Soviet leaders, took a tourist's look at Moscow yesterday and talked with friendly Russians in the streets.

The former vice president said he saw a lot of improvements since his last extended visit in 1959, when he had his famous "kitchen debate" with former Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Soviet government ignored Nixon's presence this time, not giving it a line in the press, and refusing him meetings with any of the leaders.

Nixon shrugged off the snub, the first he has received in an extended tour he described as meant "to give me a feeling of what's going on in the whole world."

He rode around the Soviet capital in the U.S. ambassador's black limousine. The embassy provided an interpreter to accompany him. Nixon shook hands with two young Russians who were admiring the car when it was parked near Moscow University where he could view a panorama of the city spread out below. One said he remembered the American from his visit here eight years ago, which received much publicity.

"In spite of all the propaganda against us here," Nixon commented later, "the people still have a great friendliness toward Americans."

"The Russians are better dressed," he observed, looking at a busload of Soviet tourists. "See the silk stockings on the girls. They didn't have those before."

"I think it's dead," said a spokesman for one large group of unions.

Johnston has used the labor-management committee and other special White House panels to put in limbo other tentative proposals that aroused the wrath of the politically powerful labor movement.

These include his 14-month-old proposal for new legislation to deal with strikes that hurt the national interest, which has long been "under study" by a special presidential task force.

Johnson Withdraws Department Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson yesterday pigeonholed his proposal to create a new department of economic affairs by merging the Labor and Commerce departments. Organized labor quietly rejoiced.

"We're very happy," said one spokesman for the labor movement which had feared loss of a separate Cabinet agency to represent the interests of the nation's workers.

Johnson told Congress he is referring the proposal to his Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy for further study.

Most labor leaders, having achieved what they wanted, were officially silent, but many predicted the White House would let the plan quietly die.

"I think it's dead," said a spokesman for one large group of unions.

Johnson has used the labor-management committee and other special White House panels to put in limbo other tentative proposals that aroused the wrath of the politically powerful labor movement.

These include his 14-month-old proposal for new legislation to deal with strikes that hurt the national interest, which has long been "under study" by a special presidential task force.

Surprise Storm Grips Pennsylvania

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Spring is only three days away but residents in most parts of Pennsylvania spent yesterday cleaning up after a surprise snowstorm.

The snowfall, which measured up to five inches in some areas, ended by mid-morning, and the U.S. Weather Bureau forecast bitter cold in its wake. Near zero temperature readings were expected overnight in the western part of the state.

The sudden snow in Greater Philadelphia snarled traffic closed schools in many suburbs and made traveling difficult on St. Patrick's Day.

Suburbs to the west of Philadelphia got up to four inches of snow, all before the inbound morning rush-hour. As temperatures hovered in the high teens driving became hazardous and numerous tieups were reported.

One of the most serious was in Whitmarsh Township, where a skidding accident backed up traffic for five miles into Norristown.

Public and parochial schools in Scranton, which reported three inches of new snow, were closed. Wilkes-Barre, with slightly more than four inches, also shut down its schools.

There was one storm-related death reported. Lawrence F. White, 27, Durham, N.C., died two hours after his tractor trailer jack-knifed in the snow half a mile from the Perry County community of Marysville.

Other snow depths reported were 5 inches in Blairsville and Erie, 4 in Bradford, Altoona, DuBois and Philipsburg, 3 in Allentown and 2 in Harrisburg.

Weathermen said the storm grew out of a low pressure system.

A Lot More Needed

The one thing I like most about Dr. Maurice Goddard, Secretary of Forest and Waters, is his total disregard for political expediency. He calls a spade a spade when he thinks it's a spade, a quality sadly lacking in most of our leaders.

As most of us know, the western states have been stealing the East blind when it comes to the spending of tax money in all of the fields of federal development over the last eighty years, sometimes with the aid of our own senators and congressmen.

But when Dr. Goddard addressed the Denver Water Resources Conference at Denver, Colorado, he threw caution to the wind and told off the boys from the "gimme" states in the manner that they should have been told off by our legislators years ago.

The following quotes from Dr. Goddard's speech were published recently in CLEAN STREAMS, a quarterly issued by The Sanitary Water Board. As a member of the Sanitary Water Board, Dr. Goddard has always had a keen interest in the interests of the Allegheny River.

"For many, many years, we Easterners have contributed the major portion of . . . that slice of the tax dollar that the federal government spends each year to develop this country's water and related land resources . . . and, in proportion to the size of our contribution, we have received very little in return. The citizens of two of Pennsylvania's sixty-seven counties (Allegheny and Delaware) are contributing just about the same amount as the citizens of Colorado and Montana with little or no return insofar as federal expenditures for water development are concerned.

"The Eastern water administrator knows only pure frustration when he goes before the Congressional committees to press for the authorization and funding of necessary water projects—many of them have taken over thirty years to even get underway. He is handed the crumbs and the cake goes west! . . .

"It seems just plain ridiculous to us to keep placing Eastern farm land in the 'Soil Bank,' while continuing to bring additional marginal Western lands into production through subsidized water development.

"Instead, why not bring this Eastern land, where the people are, and where rainfall is plentiful, back into production? . . .

"Of one thing I am certain, you could put a lot of abandoned Eastern farm acreage back in production for the cost of furnishing water to one Western acre. . . .

"In our opinion, the power picture really gets wild when you justify projects on the basis of producing the power needed to pump and transport the water to questionable irrigation projects. . . .

"Frankly, this looks to us like just another attempt to hornswoggle the taxpayer—a gentleman who, by the way, is largely of the genus homo Easterner—by juggling the benefits to construct at any cost. . . .

"Population pressures may make even development of marginal Western projects necessary some day, but we must emphasize that the East has immediate problems that must be rectified before the bottom drops out of the national economy.

"In short, you have long-range planning time—we don't!

"What I am really saying is that the nation's largest segment of population and industry needs help and needs it fast. The minority has cornered the market long enough.

"The East must meet its massive water quality problems; increase its storage; revitalize its agriculture; and develop as much nearby outdoor recreation for its millions as possible before available space is swallowed up by urbanization.

"The time has come, gentlemen, when we must insist, yes, demand, that you give us back the ball, and with it, a fighting chance.

"We have subsidized your dream long enough—far too many Western projects have been constructed with Eastern dollars, and we now need and want our rightful share. . . .

Almost tripling the police force in New York City's 25th Precinct in Manhattan brought these results in a four-month test period: the number of felonies dropped 55 per cent; robberies 70 per cent; burglaries 65 per cent; street muggings 90 per cent. The city's firearms laws were not significantly changed either before or during this test period.

Ducks Unlimited, an organization of sportsmen started in 1937, has rebuilt and restored more than a million acres of prime waterfowl habitat. DU members have also planted thousands of acres in waterfowl food. All of the funds have come from sportsmen and will help assure the future of waterfowl in America.

An added benefit of DU programs is that hundreds of non-hunted species of game such as shore birds, swans, and marsh birds survive because of DU habitat development. Anyone who enjoys wildlife, whether he is a hunter or not, is indebted to DU projects.

Class A Finals Tonight

By JOHN L. TAYLOR
HARRISBURG (AP) — Chester High School, often a bridesmaid but never a bride, and Ambridge High, who until this year was not even invited to the wedding, engage one another here tonight for the PIAA Class A basketball championship.

Six times since 1954, Chester has gained the state finals, but on the five previous occasions the Clippers wound up second best. The last defeat was to Pittsburgh Schenley in the 1966 title game.

By contrast, Ambridge is making its first bid for the state crown, but the Bridgers' convincing 68-50 regional victory over Schenley Wednesday make them the definite favorites over Chester.

Neither Chester nor Ambridge has tasted defeat this season. Both teams come from areas of the state noted for top-notch scholastic basketball.

A capacity crowd approaching 9,000 and a statewide television audience will view the classic to be played at the Farm Show Arena, where Chester already has racked up two playoff victories.

Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Ambridge, first-time champion of the powerful WPAL Dist. 7 owes a great deal of its success to the dynamic duo of Dick DeVenizio, a 5-10 senior, and Denny Wuycik, a 6-5 junior, who average 20 and 25 points per game, respectively.

DeVenizio was named to the Associated Press All-State second team last year when he played for Springdale. When his father Chuck DeVenizio, resigned as the Springdale coach and assumed coaching duties at Ambridge, Dick went along.

Other starters for the Bridgers are Frank Kaufman, a 6-8 center who averages 10 points a game; Walt Ostrowski, a 6-0 senior, and Phil DePasquale, a 5-9 senior.

Chester, a team that has enjoyed phenomenal success, has a one-two punch in co-captains Ken Shamberger, a 6-6 senior, and Paul Williams, a 6-3 senior, who average 11 and 16 points per game.

Shamberger, although his point production may seem small, is an excellent defensive player and a strong rebounder. Williams is also strong on defense.

The three other starters, all juniors, are 5-6 Eddie Swain, averaging 13 points a game; 6-3 Harry McLaughlin, 12 points, and 6-1 Steve Powell.

Since the PIAA playoffs began teams from the eastern half of the state have won 23 state titles, while teams from the west have won 22. However, western teams have won the past three championships.

HOMETOWN BOY MAKES GOOD

Dan Sikes, a Jacksonville native, walks off the 18th green following the first round of the $100,000 Jacksonville Open on Thursday. He fired a 67 to take a one stroke lead. Yesterday he had a 69, but increased his lead by another stroke. See story below.

Sikes Leads Jacksonville By 2, Palmer Misses Cut

By RON SPEER
JACKSONVILLE Fla. (AP)—Cautious Dan Sikes nursed his opening lead safely through the second round of the $100,000 Jacksonville Open with a 69 yesterday, while putting problems knocked Arnold Palmer out of his first golf tournament in nearly two years.

The famed four-time Masters champion shot a 73 after an opening 75 for a 148, one stroke more than the cutoff line for the final 36 holes.

Palmer had not missed the cutoff since the 1965 U.S. Open and he blamed his putter for his Jacksonville problems although he didn't appear too upset about not getting to continue.

"I two-putted every green," Palmer said. "Bad putting is the difference between where I am and a score of about 140."

Palmer wasn't the only big name with problems, however. South African Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus and defending champion Doug Sanders also were far back in the pack.

Sikes held his opening lead despite jitters brought on when he hit a caddy with his practice drive.

The Jacksonville lawyer's 3-under-par round on his home course—where he opened with a 67—gave him a 36-hole total of 136 and a two stroke lead over Gay Brewer Jr., who shot a 70.

Deadlocked at third with Bert Yancey and Jack McGowan at 139 was Bob Goalby, stocky Californian who aced the 15th for the second hole-in-one of the tournament.

Sikes had no spectacular shots in his round, declining to gamble his lead on the long, tree-lined Deerwood Club course.

"I was real jumpy at the start after hitting a caddy on the stomach with a warmup drive," said the 36-year-old winner of two Pro titles in seven seasons on the tour. "But the caddy said he was all right, so I tried to forget it."

Player, fighting a fever, shot his second 72 to tie at 144 with Sanders, who turned in a 71. Nicklaus, complaining that "I couldn't hit an iron shot close to the hole," soared to a 74 for 146.

Goalby, winner of the San Diego Open this year, surged into contention with his perfect three-iron shot on the 210-yard 15th hole. The ace came a day late, however, because Don January won the sports car Thursday given for the first hole in one of the tournament.

Goalby finished with a 69, which included a double-bogey five on the second hole. McGowan turned in a 68 and Yancey shot a blazing 66 to climb out of the pack after his first-round 73.

January, Bill Collins, Jacky Cupit, Jim Colbert, and Julius Boros, winner of the Citrus Open last Sunday, were among those deadlocked at 140.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Mercer High School won its second straight Class B championship and Darby Township won the Class C title last night in the semi-windup of the PIAA state basketball playoffs.

Mercer, avenging a 1964 loss in the state championship game, defeated Montrose, 61-52, in the second game of a double-header before 6,120 fans at the Farm Show Arena.

Darby Twp., a school only two years old, beat Union Joint, 51-44, in the first game.

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Paul Hoffmann scored 31 points, 17 in the last quarter, to pace Hazleton St. Gabriel to a 68-60 basketball victory over North East St. Gregory last night in the PCIAA Class C, State Final.

St. Gabriel, the defending champ, was behind 48-44 at the start of the fourth quarter, then Hoffmann got hot.

Tom Ferko of St. Gregory led his team's scoring with 18, while St. Gabriel's Tom Barletta chipped in with 17.

Mercer, using the fast break to near perfection, and capitalizing on its superior height, had little trouble putting away Montrose after the teams had played the first quarter on fairly even terms.

Four Mercer Mustangs scored in double figures, with Art Adair at 6-7 the tallest man on the court, piling up 16 points. Dave Canfield had 16 for Montrose but 12 of Canfield's points came in the first quarter when he almost singlehandedly kept the Meteors in contention.

Mercer hit on 36 per cent of its field goal attempts and Montrose hit 32 per cent.

Oliver Smith and Leroy Eldridge led the Darby attack with

Salukis Favored to Win NIT in Today's Final

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Rutgers Coach Bill Foster had just watched his dream of one more upset fade and die in the face of the Southern Illinois zone, and commented:

"The Salukis are a great ball club. Marquette-Southern Illinois in the championship is going to be one great match-up."

Southern Illinois, the nation's top-ranked small-college basketball team, came back from an eight-point halftime deficit to beat Rutgers 79-70 in the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament Thursday night and gain the final opposite Marquette.

Marquette made it to this afternoon's final on an 83-78 decision over Marshall in the other semifinal at Madison Square Garden and Coach Al McGuire says his team is ready to go all the way.

"I don't care who we play in the final," McGuire said. "We're ready. We have the momentum."

It could be. But most experts tabbed Southern Illinois as the favorite, a big favorite, even though Salukis Coach Jack Hartman was having none of it.

"Favorites against Marquette?" he asked. "How can you say that? It's unfair. We haven't played the schedule of Marquette and they have very fine personnel."

The Salukis, however, did blow over defending national champion Texas Western and beat second-ranked Louisville and five other major colleges enroute to their first appearance in the NIT.

Southern Illinois, however, had to work hard for the decision over Rutgers, which had pulled off upsets of Utah State and New Mexico to reach the semis.

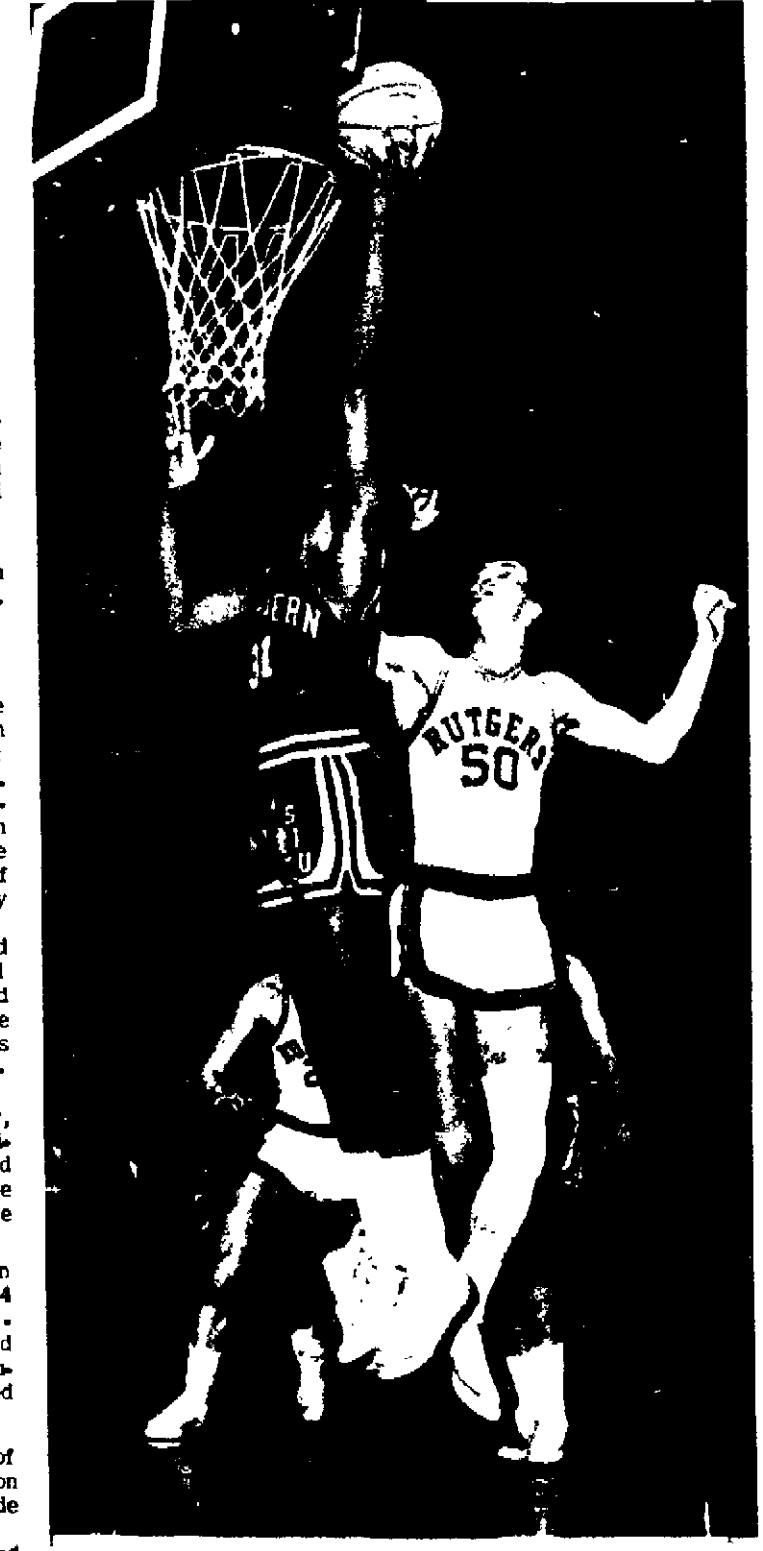

Guards Bobby Lloyd and Jim Valvano, who scored 20 and 24 points, respectively shot Rutgers into a 44-36 halftime lead before the Saluki zone and superior rebounding asserted themselves.

Walt Frazier pumped in 16 of his 26 points after intermission and led the rebounding brigade with 18.

"At halftime we realized those two guys were killing us," Hartman said, "and we paid more attention to them in the second half. We just stayed in close touch with them. They didn't get the ball as much and they weren't as open as they'd been."

It was Southern Illinois' 18th straight victory in a 23-2 season. Marquette, in the NIT for the third time, but in the final for the first, takes a 21-8 record into the title game.

The championship game will be televised nationally CBS-TV beginning at 2 p.m. EST. Rutgers and Marshall tangle in a consolation game that starts at noon.

HOW TO WIN

The secret to a lot of the Southern Illinois wins this year has been their strong defense. In this play Clarence Smith has recovered a loose ball and proceeds to give SIU two points. The Salukis will meet Marquette in the NIT finals this afternoon. Rick Harley (50) of Rutgers tries in vain to stop the play.

NCAA Regionals Open With Pair of Upsets

Four tight games highlighted the NCAA regional basketball tournaments played around the country last night.

In a pair of upsets the Dayton Flyers trimmed Tennessee 53-52 and SMU stunned Louisville 83-81.

Other action saw Boston College come from behind to defeat St. John's 63-62 and North Carolina had to go into overtime to get past Princeton 78-70.

Bob Hooper made a foul shot with 24 seconds left to put Dayton ahead for good in their game with the Volunteers.

Denny Holman's full court drive and layup with three seconds left lifted the Mustangs of SMU to an 83-81 upset over second-ranked Louisville.

Holman was high-scorer in the game with 30 points, Lynn Phillips helped the Mustang attack with 18.

Louisville had an eight point lead with five minutes left in the game. SMU tied the score on a jump shot by Don Jones with one minute left.

Boston College narrowly averted being upset as they came from nine-points behind with 5:16 left in the game.

Billy Evans made two free throws with seven seconds left.

to clinch the 63-62 win for the Eagles.

The foul line made the difference for BC as they made 31 of 35 shots. Steve Addleman made seven out of seven from the 15-foot stripe to pace the Eagles with 17 points.

Sonny Dove, the All-America from St. John's fouled out with 4:24 left in the game. Rudy Bogad was the high scorer for the Redmen with 31 points. North Carolina made 11 out of 11 free throws in the overtime period to edge Princeton 78-70.

The fourth ranked Tar Heels blew an eight point lead with seven minutes left in the game. They tried to stall for the remaining minutes but it failed as the Tigers made good use of an alert defense.

Bob Lewis scored seven points in the overtime session to spur the Tar Heels to the win.

Milk Withholding Produces Violence

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Farmers Organization's milkholding action went through its second full day yesterday with scattered violence and thousands of gallons of milk dumped.

Reports on supplies sent to markets in the 25-state area ranged from normal to 25 per cent or more below normal.

Two northern Wisconsin dairy plants, the North Central Dairy-men's Co-op in Owen and the Edelweiss Cheese Co. in Strafford, announced they were closing.

The NFO opened its withholding campaign at 4 p.m., Wednesday in the territory from

Crawford Holding Most Milk

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Western Pennsylvania dairies and distributors reported yesterday only a slight drop in milk supplies, despite scattered milk withholding actions in response to a nationwide appeal from the National Farmers Organization.

Homer Mariz, manager of the Dairymen's Co-operative Sales Association in Pittsburgh, said supplies were down only two per cent in Southwestern Pennsylvania and from five to ten per cent farther north of Pittsburgh.

"We are living with it quite well," he said.

John Stull, president of the Mercer County unit of the farmers association, said 90 per cent of the dairymen in his county are holding back milk, and members are posting signs urging other farmers to support the program.

James Wenzel of Saegertown, president of the Crawford County NFO, said his members were withholding anywhere from 80 to 90 per cent of the milk supply.

"It's having a serious effect on the milk supply," Wenzel said, adding that many non-NFO members were supporting the withholding action.

Damage $400 In Accident

A rear-end collision at 2:16 yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Market st. and Third ave. resulted in damage estimated at $400.

Patrolman Charles Musante of the borough police reported that a car being driven by Neil Leroy Meley, 18, of 12 Steber rd., failed to stop in time as it rumbled into the car of Edwin J. Larson of Hatch Run rd., that was stopped for a traffic light.

Police charged Meley with reckless driving. Damage to the Larson auto was $150 and to the Meley car $250.

1. A 2-year-old Spitz-collie female. This is a very good-tempered, active dog that's used to living outside.

2. Some people prefer black dogs because they always look clean. Be sure to see a pretty, 6-month-old, black female pup, with short hair. A real joy to have for a pet.

3. For a larger dog, see a male that's most boxer, ready to be trained as he's just a year old.

4. He's a beagle, and just 2-years-old. Such a loving, floppy-eared pet for some happy family.

5. A little older dog is a handsome, 4-year-old pure-bred collie, that needs a home. He's house-broken. He's ready to join a nice family.

6. You'll fall for a cunning, 8-month-old male dog that's all white, except his brown ears.

7. A great farm dog, a 6-week-old female collie needs a home so badly.

8. A real children's pet is a brown and white, part-cocker, just 2-years-old.

9. See the German-Shepherd Collie, 4-month-old female, light, with a black muzzle.

10. The spaniel has long been recognized as a perfect dog for children. You boys and girls will love to raise a 5-week-old Spaniel puppy.

Idaho to New York and from the Canadian border to Florida. The aim is to force a boost of two cents a quart in prices paid to farmers—now generally 8 to 10 cents.

President Oren Lee Staley stated at NFO headquarters in Corning, Iowa that "we're beginning to get some feelers (about prices) from the dairy industry."

But he didn't offer any specifics. Staley said the holding action is cutting the available supply to the point where "in the next 24 hours, unless buyers start paying the price to the farmer of two cents more a quart, the milk supply will be running out in many areas."

But dairymen in his home state of Iowa said there is no evidence that the situation is critical.

Two tank trucks, parked and empty, were pierced by bullets in Grant County, Wis.

The driver of a bulk milk truck reported a bullet had been fired into its tank in the Springfield, Mo., area.

Vandals struck three farms in Vernon County, Wis., during the night and drained more than 3,000 pounds of milk from bulk storage tanks.

State police reported windows were broken during the night in three milk plants in the Herkimer, N.Y., area, and light bulbs containing an odorless substance were tossed into the buildings.

Alfred Ellerman, an NFO member in Mercer County, Ohio, reported he had begun feeding milk to his livestock.

"It's morally wrong," he said, "to dump a cup of milk."

But, he also said, something has to be done about prices "or I'm getting out of the business."

In some parts of Ohio deliveries were reported down as much as 25 per cent.

But an official of the Miami Valley Milk Producers Association in the Dayton-Springfield area of Ohio called the withholding campaign "a complete failure." He said it would not prevent a normal supply of milk through the weekend.

There's no panic buying," a chain store manager reported in Chicago. "We're in good shape."

Jamestown Briefs

A $1.9 million improvement program for 4.58 miles of road between the Pennsylvania state line and Route 60 is under contract. Another improvement—widening of Foote ave. in Jamestown—will be discussed at a public hearing held by the New York State Department of Public Works within the next six weeks.

A truck trailer carrying 40,000 pounds of steel broke loose and hurtled down a hill near Silver Creek Thursday night. The trailer dented a utility pole before coming to rest on the roof of a canning plant. About 70 homes and offices were blacked out for two hours after the 7:10 p.m. accident.

More than 40 girls will compete for 10 finalist positions in the Miss Jamestown pageant at the Hotel Jamestown Sunday afternoon. The finalists will be judged May 5 at Jamestown High School. The girl chosen Miss Jamestown will have a chance of becoming Miss America.

Forging a doctor's signature to obtain amphetamine pills was the charge against Mrs. Hazel Malcarne, 37, of Ripley Thursday. She was released in her attorney's custody after a court appearance.

Lester Jenkins, 24, of 101 E. Fourth st., Jamestown, pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of petit larceny. He was sentenced to six months in Chautauqua County Jail, with credit for time served. Jenkins has been in custody since last October.

"Preventive Mediation" will be discussed by Charles L. Brown, assistant to the deputy director of Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service at the Jamestown Area Industrial Management Club's annual Top Management Night dinner Tuesday at Scottish Rite Temple.

A Canadian accused of bilking an elderly Dunkirk woman out of $1,800 in savings Thursday was arrested by Jamestown police late Thursday. Police said William John Hayes, 31, of Toronto, posed as a bank investigator. He was returned to Dunkirk yesterday for arraignment on a grand larceny charge.

Richard Opydyke, 22, of Clymer, was injured Thursday when a car operated by Eugene Gray, 33, of East Randolph, skidded into the Opydyke car on Route 74 three miles east of Panama, according to deputies. Opydyke was treated for hip and knee injuries.

Jamestown's Water Plans Get Underway

Jamestown's $2.5 million water supply expansion program got underway Thursday night. The Board of Public Utilities ordered plans prepared.

The board has received state approval for two wells at the town of Poland well field. A 24-inch pipeline will lead from there to a pumping station and storage tank near Falconer.

Water will be pumped from there to reservoirs on English Hill.

Engineers have said the project should be finished by the middle of 1968.

News of Scouting

Warren County Council Boy Scouts of America is holding a seminar today for those who serve as trainers in various fields of Scouting. The meeting is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall in the First Presbyterian Church in Warren. Luncheon is served at noon.

All interested Scouters are invited. The main purpose is to provide a workshop for a leadership training faculty. The training committee trains volunteers in Cub Scouting, Scouting and Exploring in their various leadership roles. These include Scoutmasters, Cubmasters, Explorer advisers, Committee members, den mothers, and parents.

Chief Cornplanter Council leadership chairman is John Lasher. Leadership chairman for Boy Scout program is Adolph Brandy; for Explorer program Charles Schaaf; and for Cub Scouting A. D. "Bud" Allen.

Also participating in today's sessions are Chief Cornplanter Council Scout Executive William Wolfersberger and District Scout Executive John G. Kloos.

A Cub Scout parents night program is scheduled at Lacy School Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Parents with children of Cub Scout age, 8 to 10 years, are specially invited. Letters have been sent to about 80 parents, inviting them to the meeting.

Cubmaster of the Cub pack just organized at Lacy School William McClement, and District Scout Executive John G. Kloos will conduct the meeting.

At this meeting the new Lacy Cub Pack will be divided into dens.

Parents will receive brief training in advancement and basic foundation principles of the Cub Scouting program.

Dates for the Cub Pack meeting for April will be set. Also dates for den meetings to begin.

All Scouters, Explorers, Scouts, Committeemen and others interested in Scouting are urged to attend the Chautauqua County Council Boy Scouts of America Scouting in Action show today from 2 to 8:30 p.m. at the National Guard Armory on West 3rd st. in Jamestown. There will be 25 action displays by Cubs, Scouts and Explorers.

Chief Cornplanter Council Boy Scouts of America plan its Scouting in Action show in April.

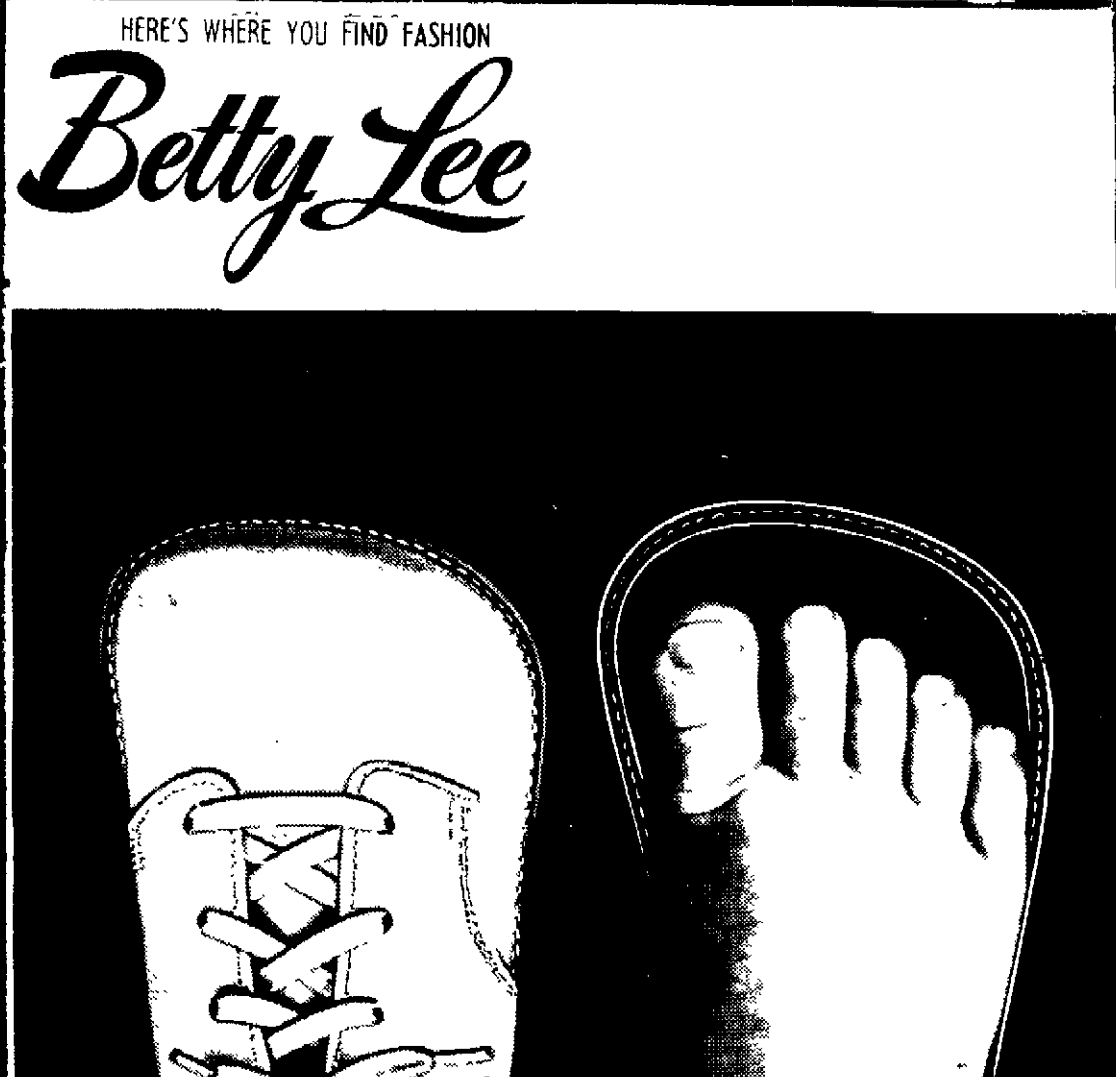

Sukarno's Wife Says He's Ailing

TOKYO (AP) — The wife of ousted President Sukarno of Indonesia said yesterday she believes her husband suffers from an old kidney ailment and exhaustion.

In Indonesia both Acting President Suharto and Information Minister B. M. Diah say 65-year-old Sukarno's health is deteriorating but give no indication what is wrong with him.

Asked about the health report, Ratna Sari Dewi Sukarno, 27, the Japanese fifth wife of Sukarno, told a reporter:

"I think it must be his kidney stone trouble. He will never be free of it, it will recur, according to doctors I talked with here. He must be also very tired and exhausted. I think he needs a rest."

A 'Lethal' Enemy

Death of a 19-year-old Warren County youth from carbon monoxide fumes recently re-emphasized the lethal hazard in unvented heaters and from such fumes emitted from other sources.

Eleven other serious cases of carbon monoxide poisoning in Pennsylvania during February prompted Dr. Thomas W. Georges Jr., state Secretary of Health, to caution Pennsylvanians to be especially watchful of such lethal fumes.

Carbon monoxide poisoning produced by defective coal and gas furnaces, stoves and heaters are particular hazards this time of year, Dr. Georges warned.

Dr. Georges pointed out that during colder weather, two factors are at work to increase the threat of carbon monoxide poisoning. They are: (1) coal, gas and oil furnaces are put to full use, sometimes without being checked for defects and needed repairs; and (2) the lack of open-door, open-window ventilation, a situation which allows carbon monoxide levels to build up rather than blow away.

Dr. Georges said that exposure to excessive concentrations of the gas produce the following symptoms: tightness across the forehead, headaches, throbbing in temples, weariness, weakness, dizziness, nausea, vomiting, loss of muscular control, increased rate of breath, slowing of pulse, collapse and death. However, exposure to very high concentrations often causes collapse and death without any of the above warning symptoms.

People experiencing the symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning should get to fresh air immediately. People found unconscious from apparent carbon monoxide poisoning should be given artificial respiration in fresh air and taken to the hospital immediately.

Carbon monoxide is odorless and stealthy, silently creeping up on its victims and putting them asleep before killing them. Reasonable caution will eliminate this killer and avert a repetition of the recent tragedy here.

Unsolved Problem Of Our Time

The French election brings into sharp focus one of the crucial problems of our time: whether effective governments can be achieved with the consent of the governed, whether governments that are able to govern can be elected by universal suffrage.

The Gaullist system is one attempt, obviously experimental, to solve the problem by giving extra weight and authority to the chief executive while retaining popular elections and freedom of speech.

The result as it emerges from these elections is unsatisfactory. For the voters have refused to give a clear mandate to the executive, and at the same time they have expressed their disapproval by voting for a heterogeneous opposition which is quite incapable of replacing the executive and of governing the country.

Thus, Gen. Charles de Gaulle's constitutional experiment has not worked well, though there is no evidence that any other system would have worked better. We shall do well to recognize that Gen. de Gaulle's constitutional experiment is one attempt to deal with the problem which confronts practically all of the few democracies that are left in the world.

No other country can be at all certain that it has solved the problem that Gen. de Gaulle is trying to solve, not even Switzerland which enjoys the inestimable advantage of permanent neutrality in the power struggles of the world.

West Germany and Italy have had to deal with the unsolved problem by bringing the opposition into the government—that is to say by forming coalition governments. There is very considerable constitutional struggle both in Belgium and in the Netherlands. There are some ominous rumblings in Scandinavia.

Great Britain does preserve both the form and the substance of parliamentary democracy. But Britain's economic problems are severe, and one cannot be certain that they are being solved by the traditional political system.

Here at home it would be naive indeed to claim that the system of party government by popular vote is working well enough to master the problems that confront us. The country finds itself in a war which was expressly and explicitly rejected by the electorate.

In our internal affairs there is the greatest uncertainty whether Congress and the state governments can make themselves competent to cope with the population explosion and the urbanization of American society.

The challenge to democratic government does not come primarily from its avowed enemies, be they on the left or on the right. Nor does it come from the bogeyman that popular superstition conjures up to explain unpalatable facts.

The challenge to democratic government arises from the fact that it comes down to us from the 18th and 19th centuries, from the age before the great technological revolution which has transformed not only our ways of living, but in its ramifications dealing with the structure and chemistry of the human personality is remaking man himself.

Democratic institutions are derived from a radically different kind of society, one composed of peasants and landlords and artisans and merchants living in villages and towns with perhaps one metropolitan capital like London or Paris.

To preserve the moral and spiritual values of democratic institutions and at the same time to be able to govern this new technological society effectively is a problem which will haunt us for a long time to come. Nobody has as yet found a solution to it.

Tight Insurance Shop—One of the surprise appointments in the Shafter Administration may have been selection of David Maxwell, of Reading, as Insurance Commissioner. Anticipating intense legislative action in the field of insurance regulations, the Governor has given Maxwell stern orders to run a tight shop.

Pennsylvania leads the nation in insurance company failures with 19 in the past five years, and this includes 43 percent of all high-risk companies with headquarters in the state. The General Assembly docket already is top-heavy with corrective legislation against the insurance industry, including two proposals to end interlocking directorates.

Making Minute Preparations

(Copyright, 1967, by Bell-McClure Syndicate) WASHINGTON—Now that a final decision has been made on the Pan American Summit Conference, President Johnson is putting a lot of care into its preparation.

Only a few diplomats know it, but the conference was almost sidetracked. When the rumor got circulated in Latin America that it was LBJ who chiefly wanted the conference "for political reasons," Johnson instructed Secretary of State Rusk to give Latin American countries a chance to postpone the meeting.

Accordingly, at the recent Buenos Aires meeting of foreign ministers, Rusk gave the foreign ministers several openings to postpone or even drop the whole thing. There were no takers.

Now that the conference is definitely set for April 12-14, LBJ is going all out to make it a success. He has invited all Pan American ambassadors in Washington, plus all the OAS ambassadors, plus the Latin American ambassadors to the U.N., to come to his ranch April 1 and 2 for a Texas barbecue by Walter Jettin, the famous Texas barbecue expert.

LBJ is turning the hangar on the ranch into a reception room, and will later take the 50 diplomats with their wives to San Antonio, one of the most important Spanish-American cities in the Southwest. There they will stay all night and inspect the San Antonio River which once flowed through the city dump, but which the late Mayor Maury Maverick, with the help of a young Congressman from Texas, Lyndon Johnson, turned into a beautiful park where San Antonians boat on Sunday.

The President also called 40 Senate and House leaders to the White House for a confidential briefing on plans for the summit conference. He asked them to back a resolution giving him authority to negotiate for a common market for Latin America, use the Inter-American Development Bank to promote Pan American economic integration, and increase assistance under the Alliance for Progress for health, education and farm modernization.

"I have the executive power to do this," he told Congressional leaders, "but I want your cooperation and authorization in advance."

"I want Wayne Morse to lay aside that buggy whip he's been using on me," he added, referring to the Oregon Senator's scorching speeches on Vietnam, "and help push this program."

"I don't own a buggy whip anymore, Mr. President," replied the Senator from Oregon, "but when you, our leader, recognize in advance our right of advice and consent, I want to commend you. We are now in on the take-off, not the crash-landing."

RUSSELL BAKER

Unanswerable Questions

WASHINGTON — Douglas R. Rens, of Briarwood, N. Y., writes as follows:

"Dear Sir: I am 11 years old with many problems. At what time do you think a sixth grader should go to sleep? If I ask for my bedtime to be raised, my sister comes in screaming, 'It's not fair! When I was in sixth grade I went to bed earlier than he does!' What time would you recommend for me? 'All prices nowadays are incredibly high. This estimate doesn't include my allowance. If I want to go to the movies or bowling or something, I never have enough money. What price would you recommend?' 'My parents make me take a shower once a day. If I take a shower a day I'm always late for bed because of homework. How many times a week should I take a shower?'"

It would be hard to think of three questions more unanswerable. Most people, for example, would agree that while 5 p.m. is a bit early to send an 11-year-old to bed, midnight might be a trifle late. In the same way, we might agree that while no allowance at all is perfectly all right, $20 would be too exorbitant, or that four showers a day is overdoing cleanliness while one a month is paying it too little respect. Within these extremes all

Morse and Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, recalled that they had been at Bogota and the last Punta del Este conference where the Alliance for Progress was bred and later born. It was agreed there that aid was to be on a self-help basis.

"I am at your service to command, Mr. President," said Morse. "I will see that on this resolution you get a hearing with dispatch." Later on the Senate floor, Morse, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Latin America, defended Johnson's resolution on the summit conference against charges that it is similar to the Tonkin Bay resolution, now used by the White House to justify the Vietnam war.

"In my judgment," said Morse, "it is altogether different than the Tonkin Bay resolution. This is not a program that gives the President of the United States any precommitment in regard to the exercise of military authority."

"President Johnson has made a practice of conferring with members of Congress many, many times requesting their advice on foreign policy. This is another example."

Note: If Latin American presidents had any doubt about the fact that the North American President means business at the summit conference it should be dispelled by the message he subsequently sent to Congress outlining such Pan American goals as:

Building one million new homes every year; increasing farm production 6 per cent annually; building several hundred thousand classrooms every year; training 175,000 new doctors; eliminating trade barriers; building new Pan American roads, communications and hydro-electric plants.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, the new and able envoy to South Vietnam, says that the greatest piece of negotiating he ever performed was to persuade his wife to marry him. Bunker met Carol Laise when he was ambassador to India and she was ambassador to Nepal. It took several years of diplomatic negotiation, says the ambassador, to consummate the treaty. . . . In passing, Bunker also managed to negotiate peace between the warring factions in the Dominican Republic. . . . When Mrs. June Franklin, a Negro member of the Iowa legislature, was invited to the White House for a state dinner in honor of Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, all the Democratic legislators pitched in to raise money for Mrs. Franklin's trip to Washington. Not to be outdone, the Republican legislators also decided to raise money so both Mr. and Mrs. Franklin went to the White House dinner courtesy of their friends in the Iowa legislature. . . . The British Parliament, following up the wiretap disclosures in this country, has discovered the same problem in Britain. A tight-of-privacy bill to outlaw eavesdropping in Britain has been introduced.

SYLVIA PORTER

What Motivates You

What would most inspire you to work to your limit to win a sales, production or profits contest sponsored by your company?

If you're typical of today's male employees, NOT a chance to win a bundle of cash BUT rather a chance to win an award of merchandise is you your self choose from a catalogue.

If you're typical, NOT the approval of your fellow employees and your employers BUT rather the participation of your wife in the program and your family's pride in your achievement is your motivation.

The promise of cash, traditionally the most popular award and certainly the easiest for a company to offer, is no longer in first place, according to a broad study of major incentive programs by Performance Incentives Corporation, a Grand Union Company subsidiary and one of the three biggest firms in the incentive field. Cash, PIC reports, hasn't the same "remembrance value" as, say, a trip for the winner and his wife or furniture. The winner rarely keeps the cash for himself and the gift loses its identity as it is spent for rent or bills.

The companies have found too that while cash is easiest to offer, the award can boomerang, for the winner frequently considers it "deserved income" rather than a special award and he becomes resentful when his income returns to its former level.

This year, U.S. business will spend a record $300 million for the marketing services which motivate the people who move goods to the consumer—salespeople, distributors, dealers—up a huge 211 per cent in five years. The programs are now spreading far beyond sales increases alone. They are also being used to reduce absenteeism, encourage recruitment of new personnel, stimulate employee suggestions, etc. Thus, PIC's study of what motivates workers to compete to win, and thereby to realize whatever the aims of the campaigns, are highly significant.

To continue: + Salesmen who shop a catalogue invariably select for themselves harder-to-achieve goals than they would willingly accept from management. Say's PIC's president, William H. Preis: "The implications of this, in terms of harnessing the self-motivating patterns in all of us, are far-reaching indeed." In short, when we have a choice of goals, we'll reach highest when left on our own.

+ The need for status and recognition is as deep in the home as in the office, maybe deeper, and this explains why the influence of the wife and children is so enormous. Again in Preis' words: "The wife's participation gives her a feeling of pride in her breadwinner, a deeper appreciation of his job, its tensions and rewards, and tends to make her more supportive." Incidentally, PIC's surveys affirm what other studies have disclosed about the most popular awards. Of the 100 top selections, 85 per cent are items for the wife or home. Prizes men pick for themselves, such as a drill or a watch, rank very low compared to irons, blankets, sheets, chairs, hair dryers.

"I don't know," and to replace them with people willing to say, "I have the answer," to nip this in the bud, therefore, here are the answers to your questions:

"(1) A sixth-grader should be old enough to realize that his parents are not as young as they used to be. If he wants to help them, like a good son, in their struggle to avoid wearing out prematurely, he should go to bed when they tell him to.

"For the same reason, he should suggest to his older sister that she quit nagging them to remember what time she went to bed when she was 11. It is very trying for parents to try remembering such details after a few years have passed, and the common inability to do so depresses parents with a sense of premature aging.

"(2) Suggest to your father that if he will increase your allowance, you, in turn, will agree to earn enough money doing after-school chores this year to pay his 1968 income tax bill.

"(3) An 11-year-old properly concerned about his mother should not only shower at her request, but also assuage her back and temper by picking up his wet towels from the bathroom floor and refraining from leaving his muddy shoes in the sink.

"Sincerely. . ."

Pretty nice cooks those Rotarians who threw a mighty satisfying turkey and biscuit repast at the Warren High cafeteria Thursday night. . . . But we wonder if it isn't risky these days when the little woman so adeptly seeks out from the kitchen chores. . . . Constitutional Convention

HARRISBURG—Distinguished Ghostwriter—One of the sustained undercurrents among legislators who opposed the Constitutional Convention bill—even though voting "aye"—was the feeling that language for the "new" Constitution is cut and dried. The Administration picked six articles for revision, rather than letting the entire 18 articles.

Debate over the legislation centered largely around the mechanics of a Convention rather than on the main issue: Limited Constitutional Revision versus Full Revision. One of the major ghostwriters for new Constitutional language—if the voters okay a Convention—will be William A. Schnader, Commonwealth attorney general under Govs. Fisher and Pinchot.

Johnson vs. Shafter—When he dunned President Johnson for a restoration of Federal Interstate Highways funds, Gov. Shafter was more successful than he knew. Returning to Harrisburg, he groused at a press conference that he was "disappointed" that "only" $5.2 million of Pennsylvania's $97 million had been restored. Even as Gov. Shafter spoke, the White House was slipping him a Mickey Finn. For a White House emissary had gone to Capitol Hill, where he assured irate Congressmen the moratorium on highways money will be ended in stages between now and July 1, well in time to avoid anything more than some extra bookkeeping.

A Harrisburg delegation, intent on presenting its testimony on Pennsylvania highway needs, was already in the Congressional committee room when the hearings on cutbacks were abruptly ended. It was a case of political pressure on the White House which worked, not the least of this pressure being exerted by Pennsylvania's Thomas E. Morgan, MD, chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee.

Tight Insurance Shop—One of the surprise appointments in the Shafter Administration may have been selection of David Maxwell, of Reading, as Insurance Commissioner. Anticipating intense legislative action in the field of insurance regulations, the Governor has given Maxwell stern orders to run a tight shop.

Pennsylvania leads the nation in insurance company failures with 19 in the past five years, and this includes 43 percent of all high-risk companies with headquarters in the state. Gannon Basketball Team Will Be Well Remembered

The 1966-67 Gannon College basketball team will be remembered for two accomplishments: (1) the team that went further in post season playoffs than any other Gannon team; (2) the most exciting team in Gannon history.

What was supposed to be a "rebuilding year" turned out to be one of the most surprising seasons for the Knights. Only three men returned from the 1965-66 squad of 13 that had compiled the school's best record, 20-3, when the 1966-67 season opened on Dec. 1, 1966.

But first year Coach John (Denny) Beyer directed this team to a 17-7 regular season record and a berth in the District 18 NAIA Playoffs. Gannon lost two of three games to District champion, Westminster, losing the final game in the last few seconds, 51-49, to give the Knights an overall record of 18-9 for the year.

By winning the middle game of the three game series with Westminster in the playoffs, this year's Gannon team became the college's first to ever win a postseason playoff game. Eight previous teams had tried, and this year's team lost its first playoff game to saddle the Knights with a nine game losing streak in playoff history. Thus, this year's Gannon team went further than any previous Gannon team.

This year's edition of the Knights was involved in five one-point decisions, winning four of these, over Youngstown, St. Vincent, Steubenville and Westminster. The lone single point loss was to Texas Southern.

This year's Gannon team was also the first to ever defeat both Youngstown and Steubenville twice in the same season. Gannon defeated the Penguins 76-75 at home and 41-39 in overtime on the road, and beat the Barons 67-61 on the road and 53-52 at home.

And long remembered will be the sterling victory over nationally ranked Cheyney State 58-53.

The nine game win streak at the end of the regular season was the second longest win streak by a Gannon team. The longest was 13 consecutive victories by the 1964-65 team.

No less than seven opponents of the Knights during the regular season received post-season playoff berths. Providence went to the NIT, Illinois Wesleyan and Detroit College to the NAIA playoffs, and Cheyney State, Buffalo State, Parsons and Tennessee State all participated in the NCAA College Division playoffs.

Individually, Cal Graham's 425 points was the highest single season performance by a Knight player since Bill Carey set the school mark of 486 markers in the 1960-61 season. Graham ended as the Knights' leading scorer with an average of 16.4 for twenty-six games and the leading rebounder with an 11.9 average.

Graham also set a new school record for consecutive free throws made at 16 straight in December. The old mark was 15 by Jim McCallion in the 1962-63 season.

Gannon's four other starters all ended the campaign with fine scoring averages. Junior forward Don Ruminiski finished with a 10.3 scoring mark. Senior Ben Wiley with a 10.6 mark. Larry Daly, Freshman guard, with a 9.6 average and Freshman center Ron Johnson with a 9.0 average. Johnson was next in rebounding behind Graham with a 7.9 and was the team's leading field goal shooter with a .478 mark.

Daly led the Knights in free throw percentage with 69 made in 85 attempts for a .812 percentage. Overall, the Knights had a .749 percentage in free throw shooting for the year, which will probably rank them among the tops in the nation among small colleges.

Graham, Wiley and Bob Robjik have all completed their careers at Gannon, with Wiley ending up as the sixth highest Knight scorer. He had 980 points in his four years at Gannon.

Returning for next year's team will be Ruminiski (6-6), Johnson (6-6), Daly (6-0), Stan Herring (6-0), Jim Lee (6-6), Sam Jacino (5-11), Rick Uritus (5-10), Jim Redding (6-3) and Ken Glassmacher (6-3).

Lock Haven Matmen Lead NAIA Tourney

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP)—Defending champion Lock Haven, Pa. State College kept six men in competition and pulled to an eight-point lead yesterday as the National Invitational Athletic Association wrestling tournament moved into its semi-final rounds.

The semi finals were scheduled for last night, with consolation and final rounds today.

Lock Haven, which led the team competition from the tournament's opening matches Thursday, was followed by Adams State College in second with 20 points, then Moorhead, Minn., with 17, Winona, 16, and St. Cloud and Bloomsburg State College, with 13 each.

Lock Haven's wrestlers won in the 123, 130, 137, 152, 160, and 167-pound classes.

STAND HIM ON HIS HEAD

Shane Foley, Lock Haven State College's 115-pounder, positions Reno Hays of St. Francis College (Pa.) for a pin in the opening round of the National small college wrestling tournament at Lock Haven. Lock Haven moved into a big lead after the first round of the tourney which will conclude tonight. They sent nine men into the second round. Only other school to send that many was Adam's State of Colorado.

Angels Have Balance

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — "All spring it has sounded as if we traded all of our pitchers.

"Sure, we traded a good one, but I think we'll have the best offensive and defensive club we've ever had."

Dean of American League managers and the only one the Angels have known, Bill Rigney has much at stake with the '67 performance of the California entry, which finished sixth in '66.

The Angels' big trade sent right-handed pitcher Dean Chance, winner of the Cy Young Award in '64 as baseball's best pitcher, to Minnesota's Twins for outfielder Jimmie Hall, first baseman Don Mincher and pitcher Pete Cimino, who appeared only in relief last season.

"We traded 260 innings of pitching; and you don't replace a Dean Chance just like you don't replace a Sandy Koufax," admits Rigney.

"But this club has been last or next to last in hitting each season. We had to have a better attack."

Both Hall and Mincher bat left-handed and Minnesota platooned both, using them primarily against right-handed pitching. Rigney this spring bats them against southpaws hoping they'll do well so he can use them all the time.

"We needed a hitter behind Rick Reichardt and one or both of those fellows will be there," Rigney continued.

"We think Reichardt will be one of the best, but with only Rick, pitchers can get around him. This way they can't."

So how about pitching? "We have 24 pitchers' in camp. Two meet all the qualifications of starter, George Brunet and Marcelino Lopez," Rigney answered. "The rest of it will be decided in spring training."

Both Brunet and Lopez throw left-handed so obviously the manager is most interested in right-handed hurling. The race remains wide open and the Angels might have three southpaw starters should Nick Willhite, acquired from the Dodgers during the winter for Bob Lee, come through.

Jack Sanford, the former Philadelphia and San Francisco hurler, posted a 9-7 record for the Angels last year, often in relief, but wants to be a starter this year.

Around the infield, it looks like Mincher at first base, Bobby Knoop at second, Jim Fregosi at shortstop and Paul Schaal at third.

Switch hitting Bob Rodgers and Tom Satriano are back in the catching department with 6 outfielders vying for permanent berths.

Right now it appears Jose Cardenal will again be in center flanked by Hall and Reichardt, but the best looking rookie has been Jay Johnstone who can play any of the three outfield spots.

"Everytime I look at him out there, Johnstone is battling to get into the line-up," the manager declares.

The 21-year-old from West Covina, Calif., hit a sparkling .340 with Seattle in the Pacific Coast League last year.

Don Wallace, the second baseman for Seattle last year, has been another outstanding rookie in the Angels' camp.

Still Four Months To Fight Says Clay

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavy-weight champion Cassius Clay said yesterday he heard he'll be able to fight at least four more months and that he expects to meet Argentina's Oscar Bonavena in Tokyo May 27.

Clay said he probably will have three more fights after his title defense with Zora Folley at Madison Square Garden next Wednesday night and that all of them may be out of the country.

The champion's attorneys are seeking an injunction to prevent Clay's induction into the Army on April 11.

After he had boxed four rounds with sparmate James Ellis in the basement of the Garden, Clay told newsmen in his dressing room, "I was thinking it (Folley) would be my last one—but I found out today I may have three more including the one in Tokyo. They might all be out of the country."

Asked when and from whom he had received the information, Clay replied "I heard it last night."

From whom? "I can't say," he replied. He declined to elaborate, referring the questioners to his attorneys.

On Thursday, at another press interview in his dressing room, Clay had implied that he would go to jail "for what I believe" rather than go into the service on April 11.

"My decision is made," he said, "but I have to answer to the government, not reporters."

His attorneys have filed suit in Federal District Court in Owensboro, Ky., seeking an injunction against his induction on the grounds that the membership of his draft board had a racial imbalance. Judge James F. Gordon set March 29 for a hearing.

Hayden Covington, one of Clay's attorneys, said recently that he didn't believe the champion could be inducted for at least a year.

Mutiny on the Bounty

(c) New York Times News Service

ORLANDO, Fla.—Billy Martin, the firebrand coach of the Minnesota Twins, was at one end of the dugout, midway through the pennant-winning season of 1965. He was talking quietly to two infielders, explaining the mechanics of the suicide squeeze.

It wasn't often that he spoke quietly because the brash Billy the Kid has a sharp tongue and its sting has been felt by all Twin players, including the pitchers. And Johnny Sain, the pitching coach, had been building up a brooding resentment at any harsh words that were directed at his precious pitchers.

"When you're the runner on third," Billy was explaining, "you don't make a break for home until the pitcher gets rid of the ball. Otherwise, he knocks down the batter or pitches inside and you're out by 10 feet."

"It isn't that simple, Martin," snapped Sain from the other end of the bench.

"Billy the Kid reacted as if he'd just been given a hot foot. In his fiery tempered fashion he walked over to Sain.

"It is (emphasize is) easy," said the ex-Yankee, "and that's why we always won and you always lost. Any time you have something to say to me, Sain, say it in private and not in front of the players."

Manager Sam Mele never said a word. Sain got mad at Mele for not taking his side of the argument and moved his gear out of his locker in the room where the brain trust was located to one in the room with the players. A feud had been born.

By last season Mele was communicating with Sain only through Hal Naragon, another coach. After awhile Sain began to feel that Naragon had deserted him for Sain. So the manager demanded a showdown with Cal Griffith, owner of the team. Sain and Naragon would have to go. They went.

The news greatly distressed Jim Kaat, the 25-game winner, who felt that he alone had reached such eminence that he could serve as spokesman for the Twin pitching staff. En route home by train that day he wrote an open letter to the Minnesota fans. What's more, he distributed his protest to the newspapers in the Twin cities. It was the last paragraph, dashed off as an afterthought, which caused most of the commotion.

The dismissal of Sain was characterized as the Great Mistake. And he described it as being comparable to the Green Bay Packers giving the gate to Vince Lombardi. But in his last paragraph he said in effect that if he were the general manager, he'd give Sain a blank contract and then hire the field manager. Naturally, this was interpreted as a slap at Mele.

Not at all, hastily explained an embarrassed Kaat. He was speaking of a hypothetical situation where there was no manager. A few weeks later Griffith brought in Kaat for a press conference to demonstrate that the mutiny had never even been started and therefore not a seed of dissension remained. But in the course of the discussion, Kaat dropped the offhand remark that he wouldn't mind a take-charge guy as manager if he really took charge. This also had to be construed as another slap at Mele. Sain wasn't present but he did talk to Twin writers over the phone.

"I'll wait until I talk to Kaat," he said, in his easygoing way. "Plenty went on that Kaat didn't know."

The skipper and his pitching ace eventually kissed and made up. At least they made up. Harmony, it would seem, has returned to the Twins. Most of the disgruntled players were traded away but not everyone here is convinced that Minnesota strengthened itself by the deals. That's especially true of the one with the California Angels.

Minnesota gave away two of its power hitters, Don Mincher and Jimmie Hall, for Dean Chance who was a 20-game winner when he was only 23 years old. But success went to his head and he hardly has capitalized on his enormous talent since. Was Chance worth the chance?

"Pitching is the name of the game," said Mele, a master of the cliché, as he spoke yesterday with guarded words. "If I were to say we gave too much for him, I'd be implying that we made a bad deal. I don't think we did."

Sain has replaced Sain as pitching coach with Early Wynn, a tough guy, who never spared himself or his opponents on his way to enter the magic circle of 300 game winners. Wynn believes that pitchers can only gain condition by running their legs off while Sain never did. So the Twin pitchers hit the road—or at least the outfield grass—with agonizing regularity. They grumble, but they run.

There are no signs of over-confidence as was the case a year ago after the capture of the pennant. Nor are there any signs of mutiny. But there is an uneasy feeling that the changes made have not produced the desired results. Maybe it's the wrong reaction but it's there nonetheless.

FOREST OFFICIALS MEET

Here to discuss updating of forest fire protection pact in operation since 1949 between Pa. Dept. of Forests and Waters and U.S. Forest Service: From left: William Arnold, Fire Protection officer Allegheny National Forest; Robert Ache, Dist. Forester Dist. 14, Pa. Warn Auto Owners' Get Licenses

Warner M. Deputy, Secretary of Revenue, announced today that one million motorists have not renewed their registration for 1967.

All owners of passenger cars, station wagons, motorcycles, farm and industrial tractors, and automobile dealers are cautioned that they must have their new registration card, and new sticker on their license plates as of midnight March 31, 1967.

Deputy also announced that the Bureau of Motor Vehicles will be closed on Good Friday, March 24th and Saturday, March 25th in observance of the Easter Holidays. This leaves only nine working days to process registrations.

Processing time for registrations requires three to five days in addition to the mailing time required by Postal Authorities. Applications received by the Bureau after March 22nd may not be processed in time to meet the deadline of March 31st.

Enterprise Shop Destroyed by Fire

TITUSVILLE — Four trucks from two fire departments were present late Thursday morning to fight a blaze which eventually destroyed a woodworking shop at Enterprise. Owner of the shop R. B. Tanner, of Titusville, RD 2, said the fire left only the front wall standing. Loss was estimated at around $15,000.

State-National Forest Leaders Convene Here

At a high-level meeting in the Allegheny National Forest supervisor's office yesterday officials of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters and the U.S. Forest Service discussed revisions to update a memorandum of understanding which has joined both agencies in cooperative efforts at forest fire prevention since 1949.

Participating are Eugene F. McNamara, Division Chief Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters Division of Forest Protection, the department's Assistant Chief, William F. Vanidestine, Robert Ache, District Forester Dist. 14, Pa. Dept. of Forests and Waters, and William Arnold, fire protection officer Allegheny National Forest.

As explained by Arnold, by coordinating the efforts of the National Forest and the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, not only is a more efficient job done to prevent forest fires, and extinguish fires that may start in the region, but a great deal of taxpayers money is saved.

Although there have been minor revisions in the cooperative understanding over the years, the two agencies are now undertaking to bring their program up to date, and the conferences now in session are working out the details.

As Bob Ache explains, the purpose is to prevent forest fires and keep Smokey Bear happy.

Charge of Manslaughter Highway Worker's Death

A charge of involuntary manslaughter has been filed against the driver of a tractor-trailer involved in the fatal accident Feb. 20 which claimed the life of a state highway department employee.

The charge and a second citation for driving during suspension, was filed yesterday morning before Peace Justice Frederick A. Berry against Duane Haven Baier, of RD 5, Butler. Acting on a directive from District Attorney Samuel F. Bonavita at the preliminary arraignment, bail was set at $2,000 property bond or $1,000 cash. Baier waived a hearing and was being held in custody pending posting bond.

The accident occurred in Youngsville borough and the victim was Clare P. Theureit, RD 3, Spartansburg, the father of 11 children and an employee of the highway department for 12 years.

State police, who investigated, said the rig operated by Baier, traveling east on Route 6, attempted to make a right turn at the intersection of 6 and Route 27, left the center of the highway and collided with the state highway cinder truck driven by Theureit.

The impact drove the highway vehicle into a legally parked ed car owned by John Hodges of Youngsville.

Baier was treated and released at Warren General Hospital for injuries suffered in the fatal mishap.

We Need Some Of This Spirit In Our Area

COUDERSPORT — The greatest response in its history to the bloodmobile blood donor program was reported Wednesday by the Potter County Chapter, American Red Cross.

James F. Ponder, blood donor recruitment chairman, said 251 persons showed up at the bloodmobile parked at the Coudersport Consistory between 11:45 a.m. and 5:45 p.m., and that 222 of these were able to give blood.

Mrs. Edgar Barnett, blood program chairman, said the chapter was very pleased with this turnout and "it will push us back into priority with some to spare."

Mrs. Barnett said the chapter's quota was 110 pints but that 133 pints were needed as "we were 23 pints behind in our quotas for the previous two bloodmobile visits."

Kane Boys Flee Chief Going Home

Kane's police chief Elmer Jones found it doesn't always pay to be a good Samaritan.

As an aftermath to the apprehension here Wednesday of three Kane youths who stole four six-packs of beer from the Warren Beverage Co. warehouse, Chief Jones picked the trio up to return them to Kane.

While en route home, the boys, ages 14 and 15, complained they were hungry and the chief stopped at the Twin Kiss drive-in to get them something to eat. While they were eating, Chief Jones made a phone call to Kane.

All three boys took off into the woods but the chief finally drove them out and they were again picked up.

The youths were returned to McKean County in custody of the sheriff's department. One will face action in Elk County. The trio faces larceny and other charges involving unlawful flight.

Probe Vandalism

MEADVILLE — City police yesterday continued their investigation into acts of vandalism committed by persons unknown at St. Brigid's Roman Catholic Church and St. Brigid's School Wednesday. Chief John Holt said windows were struck by .22 caliber bullets on the east and west sides of the church and the west side of the school and garage.

Highway Truck, Car in Mishap

State police trooper John D. Barnes investigated an early morning traffic mishap yesterday which involved a state highway truck and a passenger car.

Barnes said the accident, which occurred at 6:30 a.m. on Route 62 near Warren State Hospital, resulted in $200 damage to a car operated by Crisenda L. Hollobaugh, of 2709 Pennsylvania ave. W. Ext.

According to police, the Hollobaugh vehicle was traveling north and slid into the highway truck, driven by Wade Martin, 101 Jackson st., North Warren, which was stopped on the highway.

DRAW FOR BALLOT PLACES

Waiting to draw for positions on the May primary ballot yesterday were many candidates for political office. Pictured are only a few of the aspirants seeking election. At the stroke of 12, the drawing got under way with Chief Clerk William Allen in charge of the numbered red balls. Both the Republicans and Democrats

Tomassoni and Mason Cop Coveted Top Spot

Candidates running in the May primary election drew for positions on the ballot at noon yesterday. Some appeared in person—others were represented by proxy.

In the county commissioner race, Anthony F. Tomassoni, sixth ward Republican councilman, drew the top slot number one.

Other GOP commissioner candidates placed as follows: Myron E. Kirberger, 2; James G. Marshall, 3; W. Robert Walsh, 4; Ellis L. Martin, 5; Ralph E. Brasington, 6; David K. Rice, 7; Blain M. Mead, 8; James A. Blomquist, 9; John Teonchuk, 10 and D. H. Lay, 11.

Democrat incumbent, Lewis L. Crippen, waived the opportunity to draw first (alphabetical order was the procedure) and was left with number four. Sidney Mason drew number one; Chester R. Walker, 2, and Thomas J. Donnelly, 3.

'Coffee' Will Follow Palm Sunday Service

Parishioners Sunday at Trinity Memorial Church are invited to "a coffee" following the 10:30 a.m. Palm Sunday Service.

The event serves as a farewell to the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Scott, resident priest at the Episcopal Diocesan Center at Chestnut Hill on Lake Chautauque and former rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Kane.

Mr. Scott, who has frequently assisted at Trinity Memorial Church here, will probably make his final visit Easter Sunday.

He and his wife, Lucy, will be moving into their new home in Utica, N. Y. following Mr. Scott's planned retirement on April 10.

FREDONIA, N. Y. — Judith A. Cook, a senior at the State University College at Fredonia, was named Wednesday as a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship honorable mention winner for the academic year 1967-68.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

You hear a lot about the days of the Model T, when driving was not so much a necessity or a pleasure as an adventure akin to barnstorming in a motorized kite or diving for pearls with nothing to aid you but a bathing suit.

"They just don't build them like that any more," is the common cliché. It's true, and in some ways sad. The heavy steel they used in those old buggies, right up to World War II, was enough to make them relatively bulletproof when it was called for during the Prohibition. When you had an accident in, say, a 1936 Chevrolet it usually didn't end up looking as though a madman was turned loose with a can opener.

But there's another side of the coin. Modern cars, while probably not any safer and perhaps even more unsafe, are geared to modern society and the old ones just wouldn't do. For instance, society today is far more status-conscious than it ever has been. For this reason, we have planned obsolescence of automobiles, which wear out just about the time Father gets a raise and starts looking wistfully at the new GT 525 with its bucket seats, four-on-the-floor, and racing tach.

Technology developed the disposable automobile, but it did not take anything away from the Model T. That forerunner lasted decades and gave dependable service. Today's cars cannot claim that, but the reason is not that they are inferior to the Model T; it's merely that the entire life span of the Model T has been compressed into a span of about five years, with everything geared up accordingly.

The new ones are faster, snappier, more convenient, and more comfortable. They have to stand the pace of belting through heavy traffic, competing with hundreds of their own kind just to keep pace with a faster world. Today's cars are used about a dozen times as much as any of the earlier models ever could have been.

So it's no wonder today's autos wear out fast. Why should they be any different than people in that respect?

Building Operations

During the month of January this year, the volume of new construction authorized by 950 Pennsylvania permit-issuing municipalities totaled $63,005,000. This valuation was 31 per cent below the high December figure of $91,370,000 but ahead of January of 1966. A $7.2 million downturn in large apartment authorizations was the leading factor in the December to January decrease.

Errant Truck

A Corry man who had just put a new rack on his pickup truck and hadn't gotten used to clearances has concluded this is not a happy situation. Wednesday night he backed into a Corry market and fractured a $150 window. Corry police said Vincent Culver Jr., of RD 3, Corry, was parked on the south side of E. Main st. in front of Meerhoff's tavern. When he came out of the tavern he decided to back into a drive behind his truck and turn around. In backing up, police said, Culver misjudged his distance and smashed into the market.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why don't you get with it and knock off the nonsense about childbirth? If I read one more letter in your column from a mother who says having a baby is just like a little tummyache I think I will throw up.

Some women could give birth to an elephant and not feel a thing. Other women have a very rough time and it goes on and on and on — yes, even with the wonderful new sedatives and pain killers.

You should tell your readers the truth — that no two deliveries are the same; that every woman is different, physically, emotionally and psychologically; that her mother's approach to childbirth will have a definite effect on her attitude; that it can be a big help if she gets a good doctor. So enough of the hokey already, Ann Landers. Thank you. — TWO FEET ON THE GROUND

DEAR FEET: I would not dispute a single word of your letter. It is all true. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's unmarried sister moved to this country from overseas. Sara is a medical doctor. I was overjoyed when I learned she was coming and invited her to live with us.

After a few months Sara became withdrawn and uncommunicative. When she refused to leave her bed we wrote to a sister overseas and learned that she is mentally ill and has been for a long time.

Sara sleeps in our living room and is ruining our marriage. All she does is read medical books and write letters to President Johnson complaining about the hospitals in America and how they abuse patients and employees.

We are people of modest means and are deeply concerned about the huge bills she has run up all over town. (My husband vouched for her.)

Sara will not see a psychiatrist and insists there is nothing wrong with her. In the meantime she hasn't been out of her nightgown in six weeks and I am going crazy. What shall I do? — MARGARET

DEAR MARGARET: It is up to your husband to call in some doctors. If they decide his sister should be committed to a state mental hospital, and HE refuses, give him a choice — you or his sister. And make it stick.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: An aunt whom I dearly loved died several years ago. Her husband gave me her engagement ring and her wedding band because I was her favorite niece.

These two people had one of the most beautiful marriages I have ever witnessed. It would mean a great deal to me if I could use my aunt's ring for my own engagement and marriage. Some people feel it would be improper. I'd like your opinion. — ENGAGED IN MIAMI

DEAR ENGAGED: Since the wedding ring is a traditional part of the religious ceremony I feel it would be appropriate to use your aunt's wedding band and wear it thereafter provided of course that your husband-to-be agrees to the idea. The engagement ring is something different, however. Let your fiancé make a selection in keeping with HIS taste and HIS financial bracket. You can wear your aunt's ring as heirloom jewelry, but not as a symbol of your beloved's betrothal.

Stars In Off-Broadway Hit

Congratulations have been extended to Congressman Albert W. Johnson in Washington this week. His daughter, Karen Johnson, is currently one of the stars in a play which opened last week in New York in the off-Broadway St. Marks Theatre.

The play is "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" founded on the comic strip "Peanuts." It was an instant hit and has been acclaimed by the critics. New Yorkers have been standing in line in order to buy tickets particularly those with families whose children are fans of "Charlie Brown."

Karen has had the honor of having her picture with one of the male members of the cast on the front page of the New York Times Drama Section in the issue of Sunday, March 5, and is also pictured in the Theatre Section of Time magazine in the issue of March 17. Congressman Johnson was asked where his daughter got her theatrical ability, and he replied that her success is largely due to very hard work going back to her high school days when she starred in plays and skits; and while in college where she played the part of Annie in "Annie Get Your Gun" among other roles.

Karen first went to Broadway in 1961 following her graduation from Mt. Holyoke College and has appeared in "Stop the World I Want to Get Off," "Plain and Fancy," and "The Fourth Pig." She has also written two one-act plays which have been produced off-Broadway, the one being "The Indiscretion of the Meatpacker's Daughter," and "I Knew Zabrallina."

MRS. DAVID SHERMAN
(Talcott Studio)

Couple Pledge Wedding Vows
On Saint Patrick's Day

Miss Lila Joneson became the bride of Mr. David Sherman last evening, March 17, at 7 o'clock in a candlelight service at the Kiddier Memorial EUB Church, Jamestown, N. Y. The Rev. Dr. H. Ray Harris, pastor, read the double ring wedding rites.

Organ music was provided by Mrs. John Berenguer, and altar decorations included baskets of white gladioli and miniature chrysanthemums, ferns and the lighted tapers in candelabra. White bows marked the pews, and lighted candles were placed in the church windows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Joneson of RD No. 1, Bentley avenue, Jamestown, N. Y.; and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Sherman of Riverside road, Frewsburg, N. Y.

Escorted on the arm of her father the bride was in a long gown of white silk organza over a white tulle dress, styled with a bodice with a self band fashioned in peau d'ange lace sprinkled with seed pearls, scalloped portrait neckline and short sleeves with narrow ruffle. The skirt was accented with lace medallions re-embroidered with pearls and encircling the hemline was a band of the scalloped lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses with feathered carnations and upon her head was a crown of seed pearls and crystals holding her veil of silk illusion.

The maid of honor, Mrs. Kenneth Black, cousin of the bride, was in a brocade empire

Easter Date May Be Fixed

According to "Christianity Today" a fortnightly publication the Christian world moves slowly and quietly toward adoption of a fixed date for Easter. The most likely choice: the first Sunday in April.

Since the Council of Nicea in 325, Western Christians have observed Easter according to the Gregorian Calendar, on the Sunday following the first full moon of spring. Under this arrangement the observance falls anywhere between March 22 and April 25.

Most Eastern Orthodox follow a slightly different calculation whereby their observance although sometimes coinciding with that of the West, can fall one, four or five weeks later. This year Orthodox Easter is April 30.

A fixed date for Easter came up for discussion several weeks ago in the British House of Lords. The body reserved decision until after the World Council of Churches Fourth Assembly in 1968. The WCC is conducting a survey among member churches. The second Vatican Council endorsed a fixed date, but did not specify a preference.

Hints From Heloise

Ironing Shirts

DEAR HELOISE: I noticed a hint in your column recently about placing a turkish towel on the ironing board for easier ironing.

When I finally got around to my ironing (which was piled to the ceiling), I decided to try it.

When I came to the shirts, blouses and such that needed sprinkling because they had been in the basket for weeks. I said to myself, "Why not sprinkle the towel instead of all these clothes?"

Wow! Just try it. I should breeze through my ironing in about six months

Terry Noel

Well, your name is certainly hitting, my dear. And your wit takes the cake... Thanks for a good laugh. I don't think any of us have seen the bottom of our ironing basket in ages...

Sure enough, your hint was wonderful.

I tried sprinkling the bath towel too, and it works.

Also, it seems to sort of cause a steam like a professional presser uses.

DEAR HELOISE: When ripping machine stitching, try using a round wooden toothpick. It doesn't snag the material as easily as a metal point, which most of us often use for a ripper.

Mary Lou

DEAR HELOISE: I save pint plastic containers from cottage cheese, sour cream and soft oleo to use when we color Easter eggs.

I place pieces of newspaper on the table first.

Each child is given his own containers of different colored dyes. They have a ball dyeing their own eggs, which seems to mean more to them.

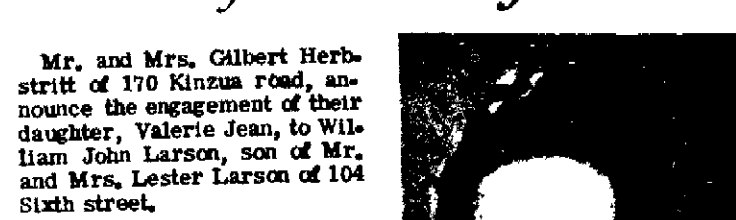

Since these containers were free they can be discarded without extra dishwashing, which happens when dye is used in our everyday dishes.

Not only saves lots of dishwashing, but bleach, too.

Mrs. F. Kieltkyka

DEAR HELOISE: When I began letting my toddlers play outside last Spring, I marked the sidewalk with chalk lines to give them a boundary line they

Valerie Jean Herbstritt
To Marry William J. Larson

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Herbstritt of 170 Kinzua road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Valerie Jean, to William John Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Larson of 104 Sixth street.

Miss Herbstritt is a 1962 graduate of Central High School, York, Pennsylvania, and a recent graduate of Villanova University. She is presently a member of the nursing staff at Warren General Hospital. Her fiancé is a 1962 graduate of Warren Area High School, and attended the University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio. He will be entering the U. S. Army this month.

A September wedding is planned.

VALERIE JEAN HERBSTTRITT

The Halls Of Ivy

The following students from Warren have been named to the Dean's List at Edinboro State College. All have earned a 3.0 quality point average, or a B, for 14 semester hours work:

John D. Anderson, 118 Quaker road; Dennis C. Baxter, 206 Parker street; Alan Dale Bean, 9 Hazleton street; Michael Brenna, 275 Follett Run; Robert H. Covell, 8 Maple street; Janet Gebhardt, 215 Canton street; Kamie W. Jetter, 1700 Pleasant road; Harold Loomis, 1402 Pennsylvania ave. W.;

Also, Virginia McCartney, 11 Monroe street; Thomas Mintzer, 32 Pine Blvd.; Gifford Quigley, 214 Monroe street; James C. Reese, 406 Market street; Loren Soderburg, 1 Beaver street; Joan M. Sundell, 116 E. St. Clair street; Raymond Swanson, 208 Lexington avenue.

From nearby communities: Linda R. Barton of 131 Marsh avenue, Youngsville; Barbara A. Atkin of 56 Jefferson street, Tidouite; Annie E. Chase of 328

Horton avenue, Debra Ann Kristy of 28 Pratt street, Thomas Scarcella of 513 Center street, and Carol L. Swanson of 20 Dunham street, Sheffield; Margaret Swanson of RD 1, Pittsfield; Cheryl Simmons of 17 Weatherbee street, North Warren; and David L. Edwards of Columbus.

Among the students in the College of Arts and Sciences at Niagara University, Niagara University, N.Y., who attained the Honor Roll for academic achievement in the past semester, was Mark A. Honhart, son of Mrs. Arthur J. Honhart, 305 Fourth avenue. He had a B average of 84.

A 1964 graduate of Warren Area High School, Mr. Honhart is a Junior, majoring in Political Science. The Honor Roll at Niagara requires a B average between 80 and 84; to achieve the Dean's list it is necessary to have a B plus average of 85 or better.

Blue Stocking Members Entertained

Mrs. James G. Cousins entertained the members of the Blue Stocking Club at her home, the new Parish House of the First Methodist Church, on Market street. Mrs. Norman Johnson gave an informative and original paper on "The Resurrection."

A St. Patrick's Day Theme prevailed at the tea table where Mrs. Ray Blodgett and Mrs. Egyptian art was most dominated by the idea of life after death.

Philomel Studies Composer

In opening the program of the Philomel Club on Wednesday, Mrs. John P. Wendell, chairman, briefly reviewed the life, the works, and the style of the great musician, Frederic Chopin.

Born in 1810 amid times of dark unrest in Poland, Chopin never lost track of his country's tragic history. His father, a Frenchman by birth, was an idealist, a teacher, and an ascetic, who fought for Poland's liberty. His mother, a Polish noblewoman, arranged for her son to receive a thorough education in private schools in Poland.

At twenty, he left Poland for France where he moved among the aristocracy of Paris. His intimate friends were the outstanding musical, literary, and social leaders of that period, and among them he was a great favorite as a teacher, performer, and composer. He died in 1849 at thirty-nine.

Chopin was an innovator but always maintained a classical structural precision. His construction is symmetrical and disciplined. Elegance is the key to the interpretation of his precise and subtle music.

Chopin concisely expressed the spirit of the dance, but his Mazurkas, which are slower in tempo, display the romantic Polish temperament. For her first musical number Mrs. Wendell presented "Mazurka - Opus 13 No. 4".

A wide range of mood and tempo exists in the waltzes. Some fast and brilliant and some sedate, but always full of grace. Mrs. Joseph De Fries played Chopin's Waltz in E Minor.

The next selection played by Mrs. DeFries was "Polonaise in C Sharp" symbolic of Chopin's patriotism and the last glories of Poland. In "Nocturne in E Minor", the final number played by Mrs. DeFries, Chopin express himself most clearly as the Poet of the Piano.

The études are Chopin's most masterly compositions. Mrs. Wendell played "Butterfly Etude - Opus 25." She concluded the program with "Sonata - B Minor - Opus 58 - No. 3 - Largo and Finale."

For the social hour following the program, Mrs. Robert Alexander was hostess chairman. Her assisting committee included Mrs. Samuel Bonavita, Mrs. James Cunningham, Mrs. Donald Dumond, Mrs. Dorn McGrath, Miss Dorothy Newell, and Mrs. Ronald Simonsen.

Mrs. Lloyd Smith and Mrs. Ralph Sundberg presided at the tea table. Decorations for the table included an arrangement of Bells of Ireland, Shasta daisies, snapdragons, heather, and fern surrounding a tiny piano.

Use either a spatula or a straight-edge table knife for leveling dry ingredients you are measuring in cups or spoons.

Need to know the depth of a pan? Measure by placing a ruler down the inside of a side. It's a good idea to keep a steel ruler - available at art supply shops - for kitchen measuring. When you use such a ruler for measuring rolled-out pastry dough, for example, you can easily wash the ruler before putting it away.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 18, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Synchronize activities to coincide with needs of the day. More than the usual reward is promised for constructive endeavors. Benefactors are waiting to assist you.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Venus, favorably aspected, especially encourages artistic aspirations, original ideas, domestic affairs and new friendships.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Consider the suggestions of others. Some you should not follow, of course, others you could adopt—and profitably. Don't sell any new idea short, and do look for new opportunities which may not be obvious on the surface.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Yesterday's adverse planetary restrictions lift now, and you should have a real good day. Especially favored: Actors, writers, musicians, designers, all those involved in dealings with the public.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Both your endurance and serenity of disposition are still being tested. But take heart. In a couple of days the adverse stellar influences which have governed your life for the past few days will lift, and you can go full steam ahead.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Getting behind in chores, keeping promises? Perhaps you have over-committed yourself. There are always ways to retreat, and people will understand if you talk things over promptly, frankly.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Venus in fine configuration. Get out your bag of tricks and launch your pet projects now—especially those having to do with artistic interests and family affairs.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—While you haven't too much planetary help now, you can, nevertheless, keep this day out of the mediocre class if you emphasize your innate enthusiasm and good cheer. Some heart warming news indicated.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—You can achieve great satisfaction by completing a well-done job, starting someone else off with an assist toward cherished goals. Emphasize stability, consistency. And do beware of those who would take advantage of your generosity.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—A good period for improving on current projects as well as launching new ones. Your integrity, sense of balance and perseverance, even in the "rougher" moments, will lead to success.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Carry on with matters already planned and launched, and don't delay your progress by going off on tangents periodically. You may have a tendency to restlessness now, but try to curb it.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Your modesty and unassuming manner usually stand you in good stead, but this may be a day when you will have to speak up firmly, especially in the support of worthwhile causes. Don't hesitate. Your known trustworthiness will make others listen.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately a reasoner, a philosopher, are adaptable to almost any environment as long as it is above the mediocre. You have an intense love of home and domestic ties, will go out of your way and work hard to satisfy the need of loved ones. You are extremely versatile; are a natural teacher; very artistic, inventive, and are meticulous about details; could succeed in the literary world, too. Avoid a tendency to make promises you cannot possibly keep. Birthdate of: Wm. Jennings Bryan, U.S. statesman.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1967 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

WORKSHOP ACCIDENTS

Young children never should be allowed in a workshop. They are intrigued by power tools and may get hurt. Dad's presence is not a safeguard because he has all he can do to keep out of trouble himself. Many a finger has been lost while using a circular saw because the operator turned away for a second. Workshops cluttered with scraps and shavings also are dangerous. A clean floor allows the woodworker to maintain a firm footing so that the will not be off balance when handling a dangerous tool.

The circular saw has many advantages, most are equipped with guards as well as a long list of instructions and precautions. Take such regulations seriously because no do-it-yourself job is worth the loss of a finger or a deep cut. From the moment the saw is turned on, concentrate on the task and keep the hands away from the device. The same applies when using high-speed drills, planers, and sanders.

Wear goggles whenever chips are likely to fly. Men who cannot tolerate dust should wear a mask and install an adequate exhaust fan. This is particularly important because home workshops and modern tools are dust makers par excellence. An instance of silicosis (miner's lung) came to my attention in which the only exposure took place while sanding.

Working out of doors also has its dangers and the ladder heads the list. The amateur never should go above the first story without securing the ladder to the house or having someone hold the base. Use the same precautions when climbing a ladder to saw branches from trees.

A friend had a narrow escape when the branch he was sawing almost brushed him off the ladder. Another acquaintance was putting on a second story storm sash when a gust of wind blew against the window and threw him off balance. Do-it-yourself projects are fun, but use caution.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: Moonshine Poisoning.

FLATFOOTED BABIES

Mrs. P. T. writes: Our 20-month-old baby is flat-footed. Will she outgrow this condition or does she need treatment?

REPLY

Most children are flatfooted until the third year and in the majority the arches develop as the foot muscles gain in strength. If you note anything out of the ordinary, however, speak to your physician.

'RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS'

Robert MacNeil, NBC News correspondent, will report on the controversial firearms issue in "An NBC News Inquiry: Whose Right to Bear Arms?" which will be telecast tomorrow on the NBC Television Network. MacNeil holds a 45-caliber Eagle semi-automatic gun. In front of him is a 20-mm. anti-tank gun, purchased by NBC News in Phoenix, Arizona. The program, produced by Fred Freed, will examine the purchase, possession and use of firearms in the United States.

TAKE A NUMBER

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest device used to ease the wait of ticket-buyers in long box-office queues is use of a theater auditorium as a waiting room.

Alexander H. Cohen, producer of the hit "Black Comedy," instituted the innovation, coupling it with an automatic number system so that no one would lose his place in line. To while away the wait, newspapers and magazines are distributed.

METHODIST NIGHTCLUB LONDON (AP)—A Methodist nightclub run on commercial lines has been opened in London's King's Cross section of London after a survey showed that 10 per cent of youngsters viewed late at night in London's Soho, center of clip joints, are Methodists. The new club at King's Hotel is open until 11 and intended for youngsters 18 to 21.

Terry Walton, senior Methodist youth officer in London, "We want to provide a sophisticated atmosphere where people can have an exciting evening's entertainment and yet parents can be satisfied that the social environment in which their meeting is a real healthy one."

WEEK'S PREVIEW

The week's gamut ranges from teenage beauty to firearms to leathernecks with Perry Como and the Warren Commission thrown in for good measure.

CBS is absent from the specials list but NBC comes forth with four and ABC has three, plus His Highness Mohammad Ali.

The Jr. Miss America pageant leads off the NBC parade Saturday night, and on Sunday this network brings "Whose Right to Bear Firearms?" followed ironically by "Annie Get Your Gun." Mr. Como entertains Monday night with an Easter music show.

Tuesday night ABC presents actual film footage of U.S. Marine action on Pacific islands during World War II. Batman is the only one who makes it on the Wednesday night regular schedule.

WPSX-TV, Ch. 3, vacations its in-school programming starting Wednesday, March 22 through Tuesday, March 28. As a result, there are a number of changes on the evening schedule.

An NET program Monday night at 8:30 delves into a prevalent type of mental illness with "Schizophrenia: The Shattered Mirror." Wednesday evening's Play of the Week features "Highlights of New Faces," a five-act musical review of two Broadway hits.

Pennsylvania Magazine on Thursday night has a varied format. There will be a religious service from Eisenhower Memorial Chapel at Penn State done in modern song and dance; plans and an architect's drawing of the new Centre County vocational-technical school will be shown and discussed; Girl Scouts will sing and demonstrate the latest in GS cooking gadgets; the winners of the state speech tournament for high school students will be presented; and a priest will recount his experiences in Vietnam.

NEW FAITH SERIES

Church splits and mergers will be explored in a series of four weekly "Frontiers of Faith" programs on NBC-TV starting Sunday, April 2. The programs range from the Reformation and the birth of Protestantism to today's ecumenical ferment and church and denominational mergers.

The series, "The Church: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," is being produced by the Television Religious Programs Unit of NBC News in cooperation with the National Council of Churches. The past will be evoked in two dramas, panel discussions will handle the present and future.

The first drama dealing with the Reformation is "The Ashes of the Martyrs" on April 2. The second is "The Voices of the Saints," April 9, tracing the history of and reasons for the denominational groups and splits to be found in the U.S.

A panel discussion, April 16, will explore the reasons behind varied unions of churches in the U.S. in the past 50 years. Plans and hopes of the Consultation on Church Union will be examined in the second panel discussion on April 23.

PEOPLE & PROGRAMS

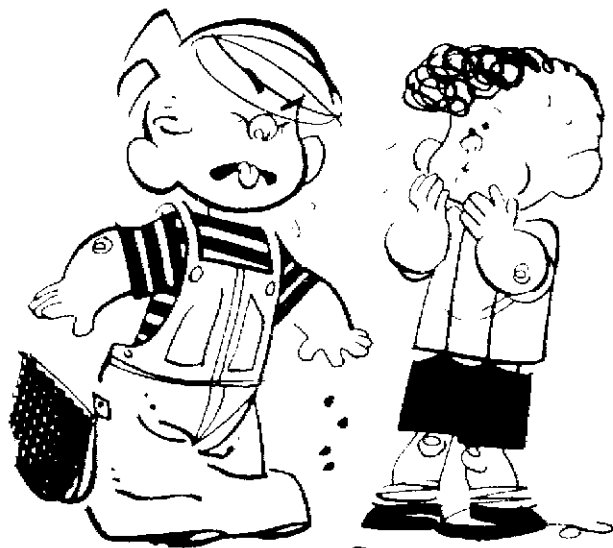

PRESIDENT JOHNSON's meeting with his advisers on Vietnam in Guam next week will be given television coverage, possibly by satellite. As of this writing, no day or time has been set.

THE VIEW FROM EUROPE will be presented on NBC-TV Sunday, April 16. It will examine why the attitude of Western Europe has changed from deep sympathy to suspicion since the death of John F. Kennedy.

VIC DAMONE will host the Dean Martin Summer Show, a series of 12 full-hour weekly variety shows starting Thursday, June 22, on NBC-TV.

THE INVESTIGATION, Peter Weiss's searing drama based on actual court testimony in Nazi atrocity trials, will be seen twice on NBC-TV next month, Friday, April 14, 9:30-11 p.m., and two days later on Sunday, April 16, at 3:30-5 p.m. This double scheduling was made to allow a much larger audience to see this play which New York critics deemed a "must" in their reviews.

BONANZA has set a one-show record and received a special award from Fame Magazine in recognition of being named the top western television program for the sixth consecutive year. Fame annually polls television editors, critics, and columnists. Teladio's vote went to Bonanza.

In the book of Acts 26:28, we read these words of King Agrippa, "ALMOST THOU PERSUADEST me to be a Christian."

In the gospel of St. John, 18:2 we read these words "And Judas also, which BETRAYED him, knew the place. ." We read of Peter's denial in St. Matthew 26:74 "Then began he to curse and to swear, saying, I KNOW NOT THE MAN".

Basically, we might say these are three of the types of people that Jesus Christ is walking toward Calvary for. Those who never completely give themselves over to Christ, Those that do not witness for Christ (thus denying Christ), Those that betray Him for the "silver and gold" of this world. At this season of the year our hearts and minds turn to the picture that is so deeply transfixed to us as Christians . . . that of the Cross . . . The cross is representative of all mankind, dying in this world of sin. Upon that cross was the One who had the power to forgive all sins and not only forgive, but to fill the cleansed heart with the Holy Spirit. The Christ, upon the cross, has paid the price. In this day how many of us can honestly answer the question, "which of the three am I?"

IT'S THE 'RED BARN' ON THE EASTSIDE

Things are hopping at the "Red Barn" on Pennsylvania Ave. East as preparations are pushed for the opening, scheduled for Tuesday, March 21st, Ronald Pazderski, of Clarendon, is manager of the new restaurant and drive-in which will specialize in hamburgers, country chicken and the other delicacies of the fast-serving cuisine. A large new sign was erected in front of the "barn" yesterday and thousands of dollars in serving and kitchen equipment installed. All will be in readiness, with a staff of workers to serve guests, for Tuesday's opening. (Photo by Mansfield)

Sewage Act Rules Are Explained

MEADVILLE — A Pennsylvania Department of Health official Thursday explained to 15 borough and township officials what requirements they will have to fulfill by July 1 under the State Sewage Facility Act.

C. J. Lytle of Linesville, regional coordinator for sewage facilities in the health department, said that in areas of the county where there are no sanitary sewer facilities, percolation tests will be required and a sewer plan must either be under study or completed by July 1.

Leroy O. Myers, county planners, said all subdivisions will be affected except the cities of Meadville and Titusville.

He said the subdivision governments can either move to make an independent study of sign to be included in the countywide water and sewer survey, being undertaken by the planning commission. Each subdivision participating in the county survey must also have a man to administer its program he pointed out.

July 25 Is Deadline

Vets' Loans

Less than five months remain for Veterans of World War II to use their guarantee privileges for a loan to purchase a home, farm or for business purposes. This warning came from Alvin Guyler, manager of the Pittsburgh Veterans Administration Regional Office.

Present statutes provide that the absolute cutoff date for World War II veterans will be on July 25, 1967. This deadline is the result of Congressional action which has delayed the final date of eligibility several times.

The cutoff will not affect veterans of the Korean Conflict or veterans who have served since January 31, 1955, Guyler pointed out, as these veterans are covered by different legislation.

Almost seven million loans have been guaranteed by the Veterans Administration to veterans since the beginning of the program following World War II. One out of every five homes constructed in the United States following World War II was with VA guarantee.

The Veterans Administration will guarantee up to 60 per cent of the purchase price of a home for a veteran with limitation as to the total purchase price.

Guyler urged veterans planning to purchase a home to make their selection as soon as possible, avoiding the last minute rush for certification.

Nab Ripley Woman On Drug Forgery

MAYVILLE, N. Y. — An eight-week narcotics investigation ended Thursday with the arrest of a Ripley, N.Y. woman for allegedly forging doctor's prescriptions to obtain drugs.

Mrs. Hazel Malcarne, 37, 25 N. State st., Ripley, was released to the custody of her attorney following arraignment Thursday before County Judge Edwin O'Connor.

Mrs. Malcarne was charged with third degree forgery. The investigation was conducted by New York State Police Investigator Donald Munch, Chautauque County Sheriff Department investigators Arlie Wilson and Lt. Richard Ressler,

Valley Grove Teachers Get $500-800 Hike

FRANKLIN — Teachers in the Valley Grove District will receive salary increases ranging from $500 to $800 during the 1967-68 term through action taken by the board.

The board, meeting Wednesday night in Rocky Grove High School, adopted a new salary schedule.

Beginning teachers will receive $5,100, compared with $4,600 in the past. Top scale is $8,600. The present salary schedule reaches $7,800.

Some fringe benefits, were approved, including the full payment of Blue Cross and Blue Shield on the basis of single coverage, and recognition of credits beyond the master's degree for increases in salary. The district already pays $30 per credit up to a master's degree.

Report Little Change in PDM Plant Walkout

Little change in the strike situation at Pittsburgh Des Moines Steel Co. plant was reported here yesterday afternoon, although optimism was expressed that conditions might show improvement soon.

The company issued the following statement concerning the difficulties:

"Pittsburgh - Des Moines Steel Company employees have been on strike for two weeks. Why?—To make the Company force 13 men at the Baltimore Plant of PDM to join the Boilermakers Union.

"The total number of employees at the Baltimore plant was 30 men two weeks ago when the strike started. Today 26 men are at work at that plant and by being there they are saying to the Boilermakers Union they don't want to be forced to join the Union to have a job. More employees are being placed on the payroll every day.

What can the 100 employees in the Warren plant of PDM hope to gain by not working in Warren? Moreover the 100 employees in Warren are violating their No-Strike Agreement with PDM; and the Union may be subject to a damage suit for an illegal strike.

"The power of the Union to intimidate men to take action in violation of good common sense should be curtailed in our country where individual freedom has long been a sacred trust."

Name Ohio Man To $9500 Job In Crawford Co.

MEADVILLE — The Crawford County Community Action Association which has been without a full-time executive director since Feb. 1, Thursday night hired Robert Allen Oleen, of Sheffield Lake, Ohio, to fill the position.

Alfred W. Stone, who resigned from the post, has continued in the office on a part-time basis until a replacement could be found.

Oleen, 45, will receive a salary of $9,500 plus moving expenses.

Probe Naphtha

BRADFORD — Officials are trying to trace the source of naphtha which resulted in an order Wednesday evening to shut down Bradford's sewage disposal plant. The naphtha was detected in an 8-inch line from Foster Township, a suburb.

Crawford Tax Hiked Two Mills

MEADVILLE — The Crawford County Commissioners formally adopted the 1967 budget calling for record expenditures of $2,207,518.79 and anticipating revenues of $2,220,494.80.

The budget calls for a real estate levy of 13 mills, up two from last year, a 4-mill personal property tax, and a $3 per capita levy.

The budget must be forwarded to the State Department of Internal Affairs for inspection. It has been properly advertised and open for public review at the courthouse. Commissioner Ralph H. Wagner noted that during the inspection period no one asked to look at the county budget.

In other actions at their weekly meeting Thursday, the commissioners voted to advertise the 1966 county audit in the newspapers at a cost of about $300. The audit will be printed and about 100 copies made to distribute among other counties in the state on an exchange basis.

Fuellhart and Frame Support Week's Bills

Assemblyman William C. Fuellhart supported five of six pieces of major legislation before the Assembly during the week of March 13-17. His vote was not recorded on roll call on the sixth.

Two of the bills authorized issuance of hunting and fishing licenses be placed in the hands of the Game and Fish Commissioners to be taken from the Department of Revenue as pre-conditions at present. Another would remove the limitation on the amount county commissioners may appropriate for agricultural extension work and authorizing appropriations for home economics extension.

Another bill, also among the six bills approved by the Legislature, would amend the Public School Code providing for payments on account of area vocational-technical boards. Another measure would amend the Second Class Township Code to authorize land to be purchased and buildings erected and maintained for the housing of fire fighting apparatus without the assent of the electors.

State Senator Richard Frame voted for Senate Bill 101 to amend the "General State Authority Act of 1949" by requiring that the three citizen members of the state board be registered voters, and also SB 277, an act making an appropriation to the General Assembly to cover expenses incurred by the Inaugural Committee.

Discuss Bypass

MEADVILLE — The Rte. 6 bypass was discussed at Thursday night's meeting of the Conneaut Lake Regional Planning Commission at the community building. The commission agreed to call a public meeting for March 27 for a thorough discussion of the project.
